THE WAILING WALL IN JERUSALEM.

CAUSE OF THE CLASH OF CREEDS: RELIC OF KING SOLOMON.

DRIED-UP SPRINGS OF TOLERANCE.

RIVAL CLAIMS TO HOLY PLACES.

The Wailing Wall (the Kaulth Ma'arbe or Western Wall of the Jews), where occurred the episodes which produced the explosion in Palestine, is, as Holy Places go in that country, of no great age. Its stones, it is true, may well have been laid under the eye of King Solomon, but the custom of wailing has grown up since the Crusades. For antiquity as a Holy Place it ranks after such immemorial objects of veneration as the Oak of Mamre, the Rock of Sacrifice, or the Tomb of Abraham.

The Wailing Wall is, however, much more closely connected in the minds of pious Jews with the former greatness of their race than any of these because it is an actual relic of King Solomon and because no pious Jew will approach the Rock of Sacrifice for fear of treading upon the forbidden site of the Holy of Holies, states an exchange.

So far back as can be remembered the narrow little courtyard, some 25 feet wide, at the bottom of the Wailing Wall, has been a cud-de-sac and everybody has the right to go into it, but the Wall itself, the pavement in front of the Wall, and the houses which overlook the court are the property of a Moslem Waqf, or pious foundation.

A Moslem pious foundation may be, and frequently is, put to ordinary lay uses, just as a house may be owned in England by a Cathedral Chapter and leased for use as a shop or cinema. Many Moslem Waqfs were originally constituted in order to preserve family property from the rapacity of the Sovereign, as they were, while being nominally devoted to the upkeep of some mosque, college, charity, or for the benefit of the Holy Cities of Mecca and Al Medina, burdened with a perpetual pension in favour of the founder's heirs or nominees.

Thus a Waqf may be a really pious foundation or a sort of family entail with only a formal semblance of piety about it.

A New Thoroughfare.

While the courtyard was a cud-de-sac there was no great difficulty about accommodating those Jews who daily came in ones or twos, or in scores upon the Sabbath, to stand on the Moslem pavement and lean against the Moslem Wall which used to be King Solomon's, but recently the Moslems have built some staircases through their property so that one of the doors which previously only led into one of the houses giving on to the courtyard now opens into a passage-way which connects the courtyard with the Bab al Magharibe, one of the entrances to the Haram-ah-Sherif, to the south, and a good deal higher up.

This means that the courtyard in front of the Wailing Wall has been converted into a thoroughfare for Moslems (as there is no particular reason to suppose that the passages and staircases through the Mogharabi houses at the south end of the courtyard are open as a right of way for Christians or Jews). The stairs and passage have been built subject to the building regulations now in force in Jerusalem, and have, therefore, official sanction.

Indeed, it is difficult to see how their construction could have been forbidden by the authorities without arousing indignation, and justifiable protests from the Moslems.

The Jews, however, maintain that the thoroughfare for Moslems has been created with the deliberate intention of facilitating an increase in the volume of perfectly legal traffic through the courtyard in hopes of thereby annoying the Jews engaged in their devotions at the Wall. To people in Europe, who have been brought up to consider it the height of bad form to disturb other people while at their prayers, this may seem a curious proceeding.

In Jerusalem, however, it is still regrettably almost common form to do this, and innumerable cases can be quoted of grown-up and outwardly respectable laymen and ecclesiastics of a variety of creeds, Churches, sects, races, and communities behaving in Holy Places in a way which would be considered in England disgraceful and, on the part of spiteful and ill-bred children.

There may be something in the atmosphere of Jerusalem which seems to dry up the springs of tolerance and sweet reasonableness in the breasts of those who live there for any length of time, and the same atmosphere of religious, sectarian, and racial antagonism makes nearly everybody regard the status quo as a thing which must at all costs be preserved so far as everybody else is concerned.

But to be undermined and altered if possible for the benefit of themselves.

Since the British occupation the status quo has been almost static, except that one or two new Holy Places have arisen here and there, but in times past the transfer of rights, privileges, and users, or even of the possession of whole shrines from one community to another, was not unknown.

For example, the Church of Georgia, once very well represented in the Church of the Holy Sepulchre, had, in the period of distress and political eclipse into which the former Kingdom of Georgia passed, to part with all its rights and possessions; the Church of Abyssinia, under the influence of financial pressure, had to surrender all its property inside the Church of the Holy Sepulchre and only retaining the right to use the outside of the roof of the Chapel of Saint Helena.

COST OF AVIATION
CRASHES.ACCIDENT IN U.S. NAVY MEANS LOSS OF $200,000.

MOSTLY DUE TO SPINS.

The average cost of a fatal aeroplane accident in which a naval aviator is involved is $200,000, says an article in the current Journal of the Society of Automotive Engineers. The cost includes the expense of training the naval aviator whose life is lost in the crash, the cost of the plane he wrecks and the pension which must be paid to his family.

The majority of fatal accidents in naval aviation are due to spins, which may occur to the most experienced and versatile pilots. Lieutenant Harper points out: "Military pilots fly all kinds of aeroplanes, military planes being purposely 'tricky,' he explained. Very few of the fatal spins result from 'blind' flying, he says. A spin is a manoeuvre consisting of a combination of roll and yaw, with the longitudinal axis of the aeroplane inclined steeply downward," explained Lieutenant Harper. "The aeroplane descends in a helix or spiral of large pitch and very small radius, the upper side of the aeroplane being on the inside of the helix and the angle of attack on the inner wing being maintained at an extremely large value."

"Automatic wind slots are used to maintain lateral stability beyond normal stall. This stability assists in control and is of advantage in landing on aircraft carriers or in restricted areas."

"The United States Navy Department has conducted many experiments with wing slots of various types. A Vought Corsair was put into both normal and flat spins and when the slots were unlocked they opened with a bang and brought the plane out of the spin."

"In another recent test an aeroplane was put into a 'snap stall' at 10,000 feet altitude and was whipped into a very fast and smooth power spin. After about thirty turns, the plane went into a flat spin, but was brought out at 3,000 feet, when it was safely leveled off."

TWO DRIVERS CENSURED.

GRIL KILLED AFTER COLLISION BETWEEN A COACH AND CAR.

The driver of a motor-coach and the driver of a private car were censured by the jury at an inquest held at Greenwich on Grace Muriel Jones, aged fourteen, of Gardons-road, Charlton, who was knocked down and killed when the motor-coach ran on the heat after a collision between the two vehicles at the Blackheath cross roads.

The jury returned a verdict of "Accidental death," and added that, in their opinion, both drivers made serious errors of judgment and were guilty of gross negligence in failing to obey a road warning to travel slowly. They considered that a more effective system of traffic control was imperative at the crossing.

MOTOR NOTES.

THE DIAMOND JUBILEE OF A FAMOUS FIRM.

Of the many events which pass unnoticed in the motoring world there is one which is not yet too late to recall—the Diamond Jubilee of the Humber concern. For it is now over 60 years since old Tom Humber, a Nottingham mechanic, made his bicycle. Can any other company show a record of continuous manufacture for so long a period?

Tom Humber's first bicycle was far removed from the cycles of to-day. It was a bone-shaker in real earnest, and was known as a "Dandy-Horse." This machine, which took two months to build, had iron tyres on wooden wheels. It was, however, the fore-runner of the "ordinary" cycle, nicknamed the "Penny-Farthing" on account of its huge front wheel and tiny rear wheel.

In discussing Humber's Diamond Jubilee, it is singularly apt that reference should be made to the first Diamond frame cycle—the cycle of to-day—invented and built by Tom Humber. This very machine, which the manufacturer himself rode until his death, is now in the Castle Museum, Nottingham, where it is shown as an object of exceptional interest and a permanent relic of early bicycle construction.

Thriving years followed the introduction of the "Safety" cycle, and in 1880 we find the catalogue of "Humber & Co., Ltd." (with a London depot), detailing a large range of models. Several of these were equipped with "anti-vibrators" to the front forks. Examination of the mechanical details of these devices shows that they were no less than spring forks—to disappear, later, from the pedal cycle, but to be standardised throughout the world on motor cycles. The prices of the machines, incidentally, were in the neighbourhood of £20; allowing for the cost of living in the 'nineties, this is roughly equivalent to the present price of a Humber motor cycle.

If not actually the first British manufacturer to market a motor car, Humber was certainly among the earliest; and were the only firm with so long an experience of road vehicles. The first car, a 5 h.p. Humberette, was introduced in 1900, and in 1910, when the founder of the firm died, several then up-to-date models were made. In 1914 Humber were manufacturing a very popular 10 h.p. car, but on the outbreak of hostilities the works were reorganised for the production of fuses, shells, aero engines and, later, complete aeroplanes.

Since 1918 the history of the concern is known to most motorists, if only by the excellent cars, motor cycles and cycles giving service in all parts of the world. The 1929 range of cars, consisting as it does

MOTORIST OBJECTS TO

"MR."

COURT CLAIM TO BE
"ESQUIRE."

Thomas D'Oyley Bulkeley, of Flanders-mansions, Bedford Park, who appeared at Brighton Police Court to answer summonses for failing to stop his car in response to police signals in Preston-circus and Grand-parade, asked why, in letters written to him concerning the case, he had been addressed as "Mr."

"When the King's Secretary addresses me it is as Thomas D'Oyley Bulkeley, Esq.," he said. "Can you account for the difference?"

The magistrates clerk: "I do not think it is necessary to account for it, but can you tell us why you did not appear to answer the summonses on July 29?"

Bulkeley explained that he mistook the date. He pleaded not guilty to the summonses, and added, "I did not see any signal, but I heard a vulgar voice behind me."

It was stated that a policeman chased Bulkeley's car, caught hold of the hood, and swung himself over the footboard. Bulkeley said, when cautioned, "I did not expect to find a constable like a monkey up a tree."

Bulkeley said that he would make a statement.

Bulkeley refused to take the oath, saying: "I rather object to dragging in the name of the Deity in such circumstances."

He protested against the way in which he had been treated by the police, and alleged that a constable attempted to drag him from his car.

Bulkeley was fined 40s. on the two summonses.

MECHANISING THE ARMY.

The seventeenth repeat order for eighteen Gey 35-ton subsidy type chassis has now been completed, and the chassis have recently been delivered.

of 9 h.p. four-cylinder, and 16 and 20 h.p. six-cylinders, is in keeping with the company's reputation. A proof of the increasing popularity of these cars is found in the fact that a few weeks after Easter saw a production which was a record in the history of the company.

Six years ago Tom Humber built bone-shakers in a Nottingham shed; to-day, the works of Humber, Ltd., in Coventry, cover upwards of 24 acres of ground. The Diamond Jubilee has come and gone, leaving behind it a record of which any manufacturer might well be proud.

TYRE WEAR AND ITS CAUSES.SPECIAL MACHINE PATENTED.

Interesting data about tyre wear and its causes is provided by Mr. L. J. Lambourn, M.Sc., A.Inst.P., A.I.R.I. (Sc.), of the Fort Dunlop Research Laboratory.

There is considerable difficulty in obtaining definite data about tyre wear if the research is confined to tyre service on the road. In comparing one tyre with another, speed, the type of driving, the type of car, the kind of road surface, the weather, the air temperature, all vary so much that it is not easy to get accurate results.

In order to wipe out all these variables, a special machine has been developed and patented in which conditions representative of rough roads, wet roads, roads covered with dust, quick acceleration, wheel spin, high temperature, can all be reproduced and controlled.

The relation between abrasion, or wear of tyres, and slip, which, of course, is always taking place when tyres are running, can be quite accurately determined.

Approximately, the rate of wear increases not in direct ratio to the slip, but rather as the square of it up to values of about 25 per cent. About that value, the relation is approximately linear.

As showing the accuracy with which the machine and road results can be compared, samples of the actual treads of tyres were made into test wheels while the real tyres were run under average conditions and the rate of wear of the tyre on the road, and on the machine was compared.

The value of a hundred being taken to represent the standard tread compound, the following results were obtained:—

On the Road.	On Machine.
100	100
130	130
142	150
225	200
33	95
117	117
92	92

Other tests, on the road, showed that one tyre on a car ran 8,400 miles during December to March while another, used during April, May and June, ran only 6,000 miles. Another test, in which two exactly similar tyres were run at the same period on the rear wheels of two cars of the same type, showed that the rate of wear on the one run on rough roads was twice that of the other, run on tarmac.

Two tyres were again run on the rear wheels of a touring car and a sports car respectively. The tyre on the touring car ran for 5,000 miles under average conditions, but the other tyre was worn to this same extent after running only 335 miles at an average of 90 m.p.h. on a racing track.

Considering fast touring speeds, the rate of tread wear on tyres which average 50 m.p.h. was found to be about 0.17 m.m. per 1,000 miles and this is about twice the rate of wear of tyres run at an average speed of 30 m.p.h. Above 65 m.p.h. the increase in wear is very rapid.

Excessive toe-in has a very bad effect and it has been found that a toe-in of an 1/8 of an inch should not be exceeded, otherwise the tyre will not last its full life. A tyre run with a toe-in of 1/8 inch was nearly worn out after 3,700 miles. Another with a toe-in of 1-16 inch has run 9,000 miles and is not yet nearly worn out.

Tests made for wheel slip with a motor cycle combination showed that on a cross country run at normal speeds there was a total slip of only 13 per cent, but on a rough road a short run at 62 m.p.h. gave a slip of 41 per cent. By severely engaging the clutch for rapid acceleration a slip of 18 per cent. was obtained. In a similar "gateway," measuring the slip on the first 33 yards only, it amounted to the very high figure of 48 per cent. If the slip be doubled, four times the amount of tread rubber will be worn away.

It is of interest to note how the wear of tyres varies according to the season of the year, partly due to the temperature and partly due to the wetness or dryness. For instance, the rate of wear of a large quantity of tyres in July of three successive years was 9/10 m.m. per thousand miles, while in January of the corresponding years, it was only 4/10 m.m. per thousand miles.

WOMAN CHASES HER
"BEST BOY."FIVE POUNDS FINE FOR DANGEROUS DRIVING.

The plea that she was chasing her "best boy" was put forward by Norma Conyers Lindey, of Long Acre, London, who, at Canterbury Police Court was fined £5, with £1 2s. 10d. costs, for driving her motor car dangerously at Canterbury.

Lindey failed to obey a constable's signal at the cross roads, and he recognised her five days later, when she gave the following explanation:—

"I remember. I must admit that I was dangerously driving. I was driving under great provocation. You remember the car I was chasing. My best boy was in it. He was supposed to be in the north of England."

I suddenly saw him when I was at the Milton Bridge. I called to him, but he did not acknowledge me, so I turned my car round and chased him through your town.

Lindey did not appear, but she wrote admitting the offence. Her licence was suspended for six months.

"CUTTING IN" DEATH.

CORONER'S COMMENT ON JURY'S "KINDLY VIEW."

"I think the jury took a kindly view of the matter. You were cutting in, and why you wanted to get past I do not know. If I had anything to do with the case you would not drive again for six months."

These remarks were addressed by Dr. Ambrose, the coroner, to Henry Charles Langley, a motorist, of Church Road, Harold Wood, at an inquest held at Whipps Cross Hospital on Frederick Charles Haynes, aged twenty-two, of Park Grove Road, Leytonstone.

Mr. Haynes was cycling towards Stratford, when Mr. Langley's car came round the side of a tramcar, knocked him down, and killed him. The jury, returning a verdict of "Accidental death," expressed the opinion that Mr. Langley committed an error of judgment in passing the stationary tram-car.

A £40 MOTOR-CAR.

PACKING CASE AS GARAGE.

The aeroplane manufacturer, Mr. James V. Martin, has invented a tiny motor-car for two persons, which he claims to be unique. Arrangements are now being made to produce it in large quantities and sell it by mail for £40 or less.

The car has neither chassis nor frame-axles nor springs. The wheels are independently mounted with universal joints in hubs for maintaining connection with the power and steering mechanisms. Springs are eliminated by suspending wheels with "aviator cord," like the wheels of aeroplanes. The device is said to prevent a rebound when the wheels strike bumps in the road. A newspaper reporter, who rode in the car while it travelled at more than 50 miles an hour over a rough road and a lesser speed over open fields, said he had never been jolted from his seat.

The car is much smaller than any other now on the market. It weighs only 600lb., and has a wheelbase of 60in., or 15in. shorter than that of the Austin Seven—the manufacture of which is just being begun in the United States—and 34in. shorter than that of the "Model A" Ford, which is still the smallest car turned out in America. It is proposed to ship it in a weatherproof packing-case hinged on one side, which can be used as a garage. The inventor claims that the car can cover 50 miles on a gallon of petrol, and that apart from the engine it is so simple in construction that it will rarely need repairs.

He was examined by a surgeon who found him sober. When he was about to leave Inspector Eliot told him: "I have not done with you yet. I will charge you for negligent driving."

After the "evidence of another man, who was in accused's car at the time of the accident, the magistrate discharged the accused on both counts but expressed the belief that Inspector Eliot in ordering the accused to remove his cigar acted in good faith.

OFFENDING CIGAR.

SEQUEL TO MOTOR CAR COLLISION.

"Kuala Lumpur.—That a European inspector who was investigating a traffic offence first ordered him to remove his cigar and then snatched it away himself was the allegation made in the Police Court before Mr. Nash, by Mr. V. Chelladorai, a Government pensioner, who was charged with careless driving and with being drunk.

The Hon. Mr. A. S. Bailey, who defended, referring to the evidence for the prosecution, already given, said that the charge of drunkenness had not been proved. The accused had been roughly treated by Inspector Eliot and was consequently nervous. The inspector had an idea that the accused was drunk, but the accused was capable of driving the accident to the Campbell Road Police Station. The inspector not being satisfied sent the accused to hospital where he was passed as sober. Counsel asked the magistrate to throw out the evidence of the traffic constable, who stated that the accused was driving at 35 miles an hour. The damage caused by the collision was very slight and the accused could not have been driving at that speed. Counsel suggested that the Traffic Department should take steps to prevent people driving at 25 miles an hour on a road where the speed limit was only 10.

The Magistrate thought there was a prima facie case to answer.

The accused, in his evidence, stated that he had served the Government for 25 years. He got his driving licence in 1913 and it had never been endorsed and he had never met with an accident before. When the accident happened he was on his way to Setapak. Near the Coliseum theatre he saw a car suddenly coming out of the car stand to the road and then stop. Accused tried to pass it from behind when the stationary car suddenly backed and his mudguard was slightly dented. Some policemen came on the scene and they said that the other driver was to blame. A European in civilian dress, whom he afterwards found was Inspector Eliot, arrived on the scene soon after. He came up to the accused and ordered him to remove his cigar from his mouth. The accused was reluctant to do so and the inspector snatched it away. The accused was later taken to the Campbell Road Police Station and from there to the hospital.

It goes on and on . . . and on

Have you ever watched water gliding smoothly and effortlessly beneath a bridge, never checking, never stopping but going on and on? That is how an Austin travels.

There is no hesitation, no faltering, as it eats up mile after mile of the road. You can find no better companion for long, strenuous journeys. For its reliability and lasting qualities have helped to make the reputation of British motor engineering throughout the world.

The Austin is built to give satisfaction not for a year, or two years, but for as long as you demand its services. For the man of moderate means the Austin 7 models are an investment which cannot be beaten. It will be worth your while to see one before deciding on your next car.

The
NEW OLYMPIAN

The building of The Milwaukee Road thru this rugged mountain range was a notable engineering feat. From many points on the climb wonderful bird's eyes give vivid impressions of the difficulties which they overcame. "Going over the hill" in the days of steam was a task indeed, but the electric locomotive makes easy work of it—and gives you who use the new Olympian a comfort and a pleasure in mountain scenery, hitherto unknown on railway journeys.

Roller bearings add to the riding ease of this train—all the way from Seattle to Chicago. No other transcontinental train is so equipped.

Rector's delightful dishes are served in the dining car—another exclusively Milwaukee feature.

The observation car contains many conveniences that add to your enjoyment—lounge rooms, library, buffet, radio, valet, maid.

And how old are you?"
"Twelve years old."
"But you can't be that old."
"Yes, six years apiece."

Richard: "What's his name?"
Ester: "Oh, she doesn't know can I have some more puddin'?"

Mother: "No, Sammy, you've

SOVIET MOBILISA-TION DENIED.

RUMOURS FROM MONGOLIA.

RUSSIA'S INFLUENCE EXAGGERATED.

(United Press.)

Peking.—Traders with Outer Mongolia, who have recently returned from that isolated region, regard with amusement the report from Chinese sources in Manchuria that the Soviet Government of Outer Mongolia has mobilized all males between 20 and 40 years of age, and has ordered two cavalry divisions commanded by Soviet officers to move toward the frontier.

These traders, among the few foreigners familiar with conditions in Outer Mongolia, declare that there is no "Soviet Government of Outer Mongolia," that there is no government capable of issuing an order for a general mobilization, and that no such thing as a
"cavalry division" exists in Outer Mongolia.

No Organisation.

They add that there is no organised army of any sort in Outer Mongolia, nor any organised government. The territory is controlled by lamas, each of whom has his own clan and his own district, his flocks and herds.

Soviet influence in this region, according to the traders, has been much exaggerated. It is admitted that a few of the lamas have made agreements with the Soviets for purposes of their own, and that if the Soviets were willing to lay out substantial sums they might buy the fighting-power of some of the Mongolian clans.

But very large sums would be required to buy over all the lamas, it is pointed out, and the Soviet Union probably could use its money to greater advantage in bolstering up its own Red army. The lamas, or priests, control the country because chieftains of various tribes will do nothing without their consent, and the lamas are jealous of any outsiders influence.

Fearless Fighters.

It is considered possible, however, that some of the Mongol tribes may take advantage of the Sino-Russian crisis to make forays into Manchuria. They are fearless fighters, and delight in opportunities to raid and loot. Scarcely a winter has passed in recent years when Mongol tribes have failed to cross the Manchurian borders and loot towns and farms.

SHINTO RITES IN JAPAN.ANCIENT CEREMONIES TO BE OBSERVED.

TODAY'S NATIONAL HOLIDAY.

(United Press.)

Tokyo.—Ancient ceremonies, dating back to the misty days of prehistoric Japan, will be observed today when the sacred relics of the Emperors of Nippon are removed to their new shrines at Ise.

Shinto ritualists of the Imperial Household now are preparing for the removal which takes place every 20 years. According to Imperial regulations the shrines must be renewed every fifth of a century. The new grand shrines at Ise are estimated to have cost nearly five million gold dollars, or Yen 9,800,000.
They have just been completed after nine years of labor.

To-day is a national holiday and business largely will be suspended throughout the Empire. Jubilant will be held in leading cities while the government will commemorate the event by issuance of a memorial postage stamp.

The removal will be featured by a Divine Procession participated in by 320 representative high official of the Court and the government.
More than 5,000 invited guests—including a few selected foreign newspaper-correspondents—will be allowed to view the ceremonies from points of vantage while about 9,000 ordinary subjects will be given positions along the route.

1,000 Year Old Custom.

The ceremonies will be the 58th since the first removal was made more than a thousand years ago and probably will be the most elaborate in history, ranking almost with the grand ceremonies in Kyoto at the Imperial Enthronement November.

Plans to broadcast a description of the ceremonies, worked out by the Japan Radio Broadcasting Corporation, have been turned down by the Imperial Household Department, it is understood, on the grounds no description could be given which properly would express the solemnity of occasion.

The shrines are in Miye Prefecture, about half an hour by motor from the Yamada Railway Station and about 18 hours by rail from Tokyo. They are located in a grove of giant cryptomeria trees in a region of rolling hills. The region is one of the most beautiful in Japan, and the season the finest of the year when leaves of the maples are turning a vivid scarlet.

The shrines house the sacred regalia of the Imperial Household—without which no Emperor legally can rule Japan are descended according to the imperial legend.

There really are two sets of shrines, the inner and outer, known as the Kodaijingu and the Toyou-kendaijingu. Lumber for construction of the new temples was cut from the Kiso Forest—made an Imperial state in 1920—with elaborate Shinto ceremonies. It was transported to Nagoya where it was finished and seasoned in the Imperial stores yard.

THE WAILING WALL.

The Moslem Argument.

So far, however, the Moslems have very rarely (except under stress of Christian conquest, when the Dome of the Rock became the Temple Church and the Aqsa Mosque was turned into a Royal Palace) parted with any of their shrines, and in the present instance maintain that, while they have permitted the Jews to use the courtyard in front of the Wailing Wall for private devotions, the Jews have no right to use the courtyard for congregational worship, with the usual accompaniment of mats, chairs, tables, lights, and the ceremonial screen or partition which usage prescribes between the men and the women.

The Moslems insist that the inroduction of these objects and the practice of congregational praying is an infringement of the status quo, and point to a variety of official rulings, both Turkish and British, in support of their contention; and although the motif and other things to the introduction of which objection is made may seem insignificant, Christians are in no position to blame the Moslems for making a mountain out of a molehill. They have to remember with shame that rival Christian Churches have shed blood about the position, not of a whole mat or carpet, but of one small corner of a carpet in the Church of the Nativity at Bethlehem.

The Christians are accustomed by now to the existence of Holy Places cheek by jowl with those belonging to rival Churches (in Jerusalem, unfortunately, "rival" is in most cases the word to be applied to Churches which elsewhere would be quite content to be "sister"), but the Moslems have more spacious ideas.

The Rock of Sacrifice of the Jews, on which Abraham made ready to offer up Isaac, which afterwards served in turn as the foundation for the great Altar of Sacrifice in front of the Temples of King Solomon, Zerubbabel, and King Herod, and of the High Altar of the Crusaders' Temple Church, was the spot from which the Prophet Mohammed started on his journey to Heaven while still in this life.

Its sanctity in Moslem eyes therefore is such that it affects its surroundings far and near, and, for this reason, the Moslems refused to sell the courtyard under the Wailing Wall, although it is nearly 200 yards away from the Rock, when the Jews, in 1919, made an offer to buy the place at any price in reason which the Moslems might fix.

was accompanied by chanting of the Shinto woodmen's hymn.
Began Construction in 1924.
Construction of the shrines began with the levelling of the ground in May 1924 and has just completed. Ceremonies in accord with the Shinto faith—the state religion of Japan—marked every phase of the work.

DR. FAWCETT'S CRITICISM OF HONG KONG.

"INTELLECTUAL AND SOCIAL STARVATION."

DR. KOCH PRAISES HIS RETIRING COLLEAGUE.

THE COLONY A "DULL AND BACKWARD CHILD."

A startling indictment of local official life was made by Dr. Hugh A. Fawcett, the Medical Officer of Health, at the meeting of the Sanitary Board yesterday. The Doctor is shortly leaving the Colony and Dr. Koch had appealed to the Board to "represent to the Government the necessity of retaining the services of an officer of such proved capacity and practical experience."

The Chairman, Mr. W. J. Carris, did not agree that it was within the Board's province to make such a representation and Dr. Koch's resolution was lost. The Board, however, placed on record their keen appreciation of Dr. Fawcett's zeal, capability, and enthusiasm.

ROUTINE AND "SELF-SATISFIED COMPLACENCY."

To a casual observer, it would appear that a rather tense atmosphere prevailed when Dr. Koch rose to ask the following questions:—

"Will the Head of the Sanitary Department inform the Board whether it is correct that the Medical Officer of Health, Dr. Fawcett, is leaving the service within a short time?"

"(a) If this be so may the Board be informed of the reasons either on the part of the Government or of the Medical Officer of Health?"

"(b) Does the Government not consider it desirable and even necessary that efforts should be made and inducements held out to retain the services of an officer of such proved capacity and zeal?"

The Chairman then made the following reply:—

"The answer is in the affirmative. Dr. Fawcett leaves towards the end of October. I understand that Dr. Fawcett tendered his resignation for private reasons. The Government is not aware of any inducements which would counteract these reasons."

"A Grave Mistake."

Dr. Koch then moved the following resolution:—

"This Board being informed that the services of the Medical Officer of Health, Dr. Fawcett, will shortly terminate would respectfully represent to the Government the necessity of retaining the services of an officer of such proved capacity and practical experience."

"In submitting this resolution to the Board for its approval," he said, "I need hardly say that I have had no communication with the M.O.H. regarding the matter, and I should say he has no idea that it has been my intention to bring the subject up for consideration. But having been associated with him on this Board for the greater part of the year and being in a position to form an opinion of his work I feel it would be a grave mistake tacitly to approve of the action of the Government in allowing him to terminate his services without some effort on their part to retain them."

"The sanitary problems of this Colony are complex and varied. We are trying to introduce the elements of sanitation among a population which has only a rudimentary knowledge of such matters—in rural and remote villages nature assists the people—but in a town like Victoria the overcrowding among the poorer classes especially, is so appalling that the authorities have to step in and compel the observance of elementary rules of health and hygiene."

Arbitrary Rules.

"Many of these rules are, perhaps, apt to be considered arbitrary and one can understand that either active or accidental evasion may take place. We have to deal with disease not only from a preventive point of view but we have to adopt measures which would prevent endemic disease becoming epidemic."

"The Board has numerous other matters under its surveillance, notably in its relation to other departments, when the assistance and tact of the M.O.H. is conspicuously required. The public health conditions of this Colony require the services of at least four Medical Officers of Health, as I have pointed out many times. To obtain these the Colony must experience the incidence of a serious epidemic apparently. There were four at one time, appointed on the recommendation of the Piquet Commission in the nineties. There being no recurrence of the epidemic two of these officers, in a quiet way, seemed to disappear and their places were not filled and the work was carried on by two—when one was not on leave."

"The population of the Colony has increased by leaps and bounds and at the present time we have only one M.O.H. functioning and an assistant appointed a few months ago. I do not forget our M.O.H. on leave but practically there is only one on duty now. I venture to say this solitary official is very overworked especially with duties which do not strictly belong to the regular duties of a M.O.H."

Health Conditions.

"The progress of the health conditions of the Colony must necessarily be retarded under these conditions. The authorities ought to take measures to deal with the whole question of the personnel by increasing the number of M.O.H.'s and of inspectors. There is money enough in the Treasury for this purpose which might be diverted from more showy and unnecessary schemes."

"As a matter of fact, the whole subject of public health should be thoroughly overhauled and, instead of an Advisory Board, the Government should take its courage in both hands and deal with the matter from a broad and statesmanlike point of view, forming a Board of Health to supersede this Board which should have wide powers of action."

"The work of such a Board, or indeed of any Board, is to carry on its improvements day by day so that when any crisis arises, such as the onset of an epidemic, panicky work will not be indulged in and cumbersome and ineffective committees nominated to deal with matters."

"It is for these reasons that I have ventured to bring this motion forward so that we might place on record our appreciation of the work that Dr. Fawcett has done and endeavour to prevail upon the Government to retain his services. He has proved himself an ideal Health Officer with a wide knowledge, not only of ordinary public health matters in general, but what is more important, of tropical health questions. If it takes time for a man to acquaint himself with our local conditions and he has shown a good grip of them."

"He has, moreover, been tactful in filling a difficult position as between the Board on the one hand, the Government, the Medical Department, and the Sanitary Department and he has been of the greatest use in the discussions at this Board and given his opinion and advice without fear but with tact."

Mr. Braga Agrees.

The Hon. Mr. J. P. Braga seconded the resolution. He said it was a strange coincidence that, without any consultation having taken place, Dr. Koch's ideas, embodied in his remarks, should have preceded an idea, the speaker had committed to a confidential paper which had been circulated to members of the Board. Not until reading the Orders of the Day did he become aware that Dr. Koch would move a resolution to the same effect.

In seconding the resolution before the Board, the speaker felt there could be no two opinions as to the value of the services to the community of Hong Kong of the Medical Officer of Health whom they were about to lose.

But, in view of the opinion expressed by no less an authority than Dr. Koch himself, whose wide experience of the Medical and Sanitary needs of the Colony were known to them all, he hoped that suitable representations would be addressed to H.E. the Governor expressing the earnest hope that Dr. Fawcett might be asked to reconsider his decision to leave the Colony.

"If he leaves us," declared Mr. Braga, "the Colony becomes poorer by the loss of an officer whose ability, zeal, experience and untiring energy can ill be spared. I speak from experience because I was associated with the Doctor on a Standing Committee formed by this Board."

He concluded by observing that he would like to impress the Board with the fact that the majority of the unofficial members of the Board were of the opinion that the loss of Dr. Fawcett would be a loss that Hong Kong could ill afford.

A Dissident Voice.

Mr. M. K. Lo said he would yield to none in his admiration of Dr. Fawcett's sterling qualities, his skill, zeal, energy, ability and the wonderful work he had done. He had been indeed glad to work on a Board having such an efficient Medical Officer of Health.

Yet he felt he was in an embarrassing position because he was one of three members of the Board concerned with a private and confidential communication touching upon a certain attitude of the Board towards the M.O.H. In view of the answers given by the Head of the Sanitary Department, he was not sure that it was quite appropriate for the Board solemnly to pass the resolution which had been proposed.

He suggested that the Board substitute another resolution expressing its regret that Dr. Fawcett was leaving and placing on record their appreciation of his invaluable work. If that resolution was framed, he would put up both hands in favour of it. He could not support Dr. Koch's resolution, however.

Dr. Fawcett's Explanation.

At the Chairman's invitation, Dr. Fawcett then rose to address the meeting.

"Gentlemen," he said, "I feel I owe you some explanation. My silence might be misconstrued, but it is very difficult in the circumstances to know what and how much to say. I could say a great deal, but am not yet at liberty to do so."

"First, I must thank you for the appreciation which you have expressed. Whatever else may have caused me to record some unfortunate impressions of this Colony, the sincerity and generosity of this appreciation will brighten the rather depressing picture that I must take away with me. The zeal—I think that has been mentioned—must already have infected others and, whatever the apathy of the past, this is most hopeful for the future."

"It is, I always feel, that rather self-satisfied complacency, so easily acquired here, which is so dangerous. Personally, I am one of those restless, perhaps unfortunate people, who are never quite satisfied. Nothing is so good that it might not be better, and some discontent, even some indignation, is a good sign. It is the sauce to the more stodge and tasteless routine fare of life."

"If I have contributed nothing else to public health here, I have at least dragged some of its old carpets into the open, beaten them in the wind, and taken an inventory, as it were, of its more moth-eaten effects and sorted them out. I have, I hope, set the ball rolling, and it is for others now to keep it going. With some of the rough work begun, and with these facts and data before him, my successor should have a much easier task to perform."

Some Impressions.

"My impressions when I arrived here were that Public Health and Preventive Medicine, as the most important and fundamental factors in modern civilisation, had scarcely been considered. True, there was 'seaweeding,' but it practically began and ended at that."

"It has scarcely yet been realised that not only is health a fundamental essential to life, but the irreducible base on which all prosperity is calculated. Is it too much to ask that its ministers be acknowledged and honoured in some proportion to the value of their services?"

"That I have not always had the power nor the opportunity to make more practical use of my knowledge for five years is unfortunate, and lends me to one of the reasons for my resignation. In spite of the proverbial and however skilful the workman, he cannot produce a high standard with poor material and indifferent tools."

Half Measures.

"In science, half measures and compromise have no place. It deals with facts, and facts are not always pleasant, nor are their surveys always popular. Perhaps this accounts for my sudden rise to fame on the eve of my departure!"

"Among many other reasons for my departure, I may not specify those of a departmental character, but I can mention some personal ones as they affect my daily life and career. For instance, I might remind you that, in any case, I am only the acting M.O.H. After a prolonged struggle, I have got my correct title of 2nd M.O.H., and, very shortly, if I were staying even, I should no longer be a member of your Board, no longer perhaps, have any personal control of Public Health matters. I should return again to that comfortable clerical position, which is designated 'and staff.'"

Preference For Being In Control.

For a young man starting his career this is good enough. No doubt after many years in the chorus or as an understudy, I should be given a leading part. But by then my life's career would be nearly over. Long residence abroad and my advancing years would destroy all hope in these rapid, competitive days of a post at home. It is a question of staying on this little far-away island for all my active years or of 'going while the going's good.' I choose to go."

"It is, of course, a grave risk. Brains are not very marketable in these democratic days, but I would rather take to chances of a modest but responsible position in control in my own land than the enervating security of a nobody here. I should, of course, be secure and comfortable financially, here in my appointed groove: rising, no doubt, whether my abilities were good or bad, in the natural passage of time. It is, of course, the penalty of officialdom that ability, or the lack of it, matters so little. The ponderous machine keeps strictly to its rails. That is perhaps necessary but my nature is not suited to too much of that. I am sure the plodder is of great value but perhaps the world needs the more restless kind, too. The desk of routine existence is good for some and the wider field of action for others. One has to experiment to find one's true level and I know now, that I am at my best when in control, when organising and doing things, and we all want to be at our best."

My other personal reasons include a feeling of social and intellectual starvation. I live only half way up the Peak at present, you see!

In fact, I have great sympathy for, but very little sympathy with the place and its people. Commercially, its destination is clear, but as a civil community—I have a sense of unreality and cannot quite understand who or what I'm working for."

"I have one definite regret, which is that my association with this Board has produced so little in progressive results. I have striven to give opportunities and material to work on, but so far, beyond much paper and argument, there seems nothing to show. Needed reforms must and will come, of course."

"Hong Kong cannot remain for ever the dull and backward child of the Public Health School, but I should have liked to have seen this present Board take the chance to gain the credit from posterity. Too often, this credit goes to those who are not by any means the originators of great schemes and reforms."

Chairman's Appreciation.

The Chairman said that although he was at one with all that had been said by Dr. Koch and Mr. Braga with regard to the excellent services rendered by Dr. Fawcett, and although he appreciated to the full his capacity, ability, and experience, his unbounded knowledge and tireless zeal, he did not think the Board was the proper body to make the suggested recommendation to the Government as the Board would practically be criticising another department of the Government."

He regretted, therefore, that he could not support the motion. Even if it was worded differently, he felt it was not a resolution that the Board could adopt or follow."

If the Board wished, they could frame a resolution expressing their own and the Colony's appreciation of Dr. Fawcett's services."

Dr. Koch: Is this Board not allowed to criticise any action of the Government dealing with Public Health matters?"

Chairman: Yes, certainly. Dr. Koch: But you made a remark indicating that we must not interfere with the Government's actions."

Chairman: I said it was undesirable for this Board to state opinions to the Government with regard to personal appointments."

Two members voted for Dr. Koch's resolution and four against. The motion was accordingly lost."

Mr. Braga: May I ask, Sir, if a report of these proceedings can be sent to the Government?"

The Chairman: The usual report will be forwarded."

Mr. Braga: The minutes of these meetings are only bare statements and contain no record of discussions. I suggest that the newspaper reports, which are generally very complete, be sent to the Government."

The Chairman informed Mr. M. K. Lo that his proposed resolution that the Board place on record their keen appreciation of Dr. Fawcett's valuable services would, by virtue of the Board's Standing Orders, have to be given in writing together with the usual notice for the next meeting of the Board.

ON THE VERGE OF ANOTHER
INTER-KWANG WAR.

"IRONSIDES" ADVANCING TOWARDS KWANGSI.

KWANGTUNG'S ARMY AND NAVY PREPARE TO MEET
THE MENACE.GENERAL CHEN TSAI TONG'S CONFIDENCE.

There is very grave danger that the Inter-Kwang war, broken off a few months ago when Kwangsi accepted a new government, will be resumed at any minute. Canton troops and gunboats are concentrating at Dosing, while Wuchow, the Kwangsi strategic gate, is being fortified with feverish energy.

The Canton Higher Command, though confident that the revolt will be crushed in a month, is waiting the arrival of reinforcements from Nanking before launching an attack, while the Kwangsi "ironsides" are anxiously watching the advance of their formidable allies, the "Ironsides."

KWANGSI IN REVOLT.

The attitude of several of the Generals in Kwangsi is still doubtful, but the province, as a whole, appears to be in revolt against the Central Government and there are reports that the Provincial Government has declared its independence of Nanking. A particularly bitter pill for Canton and Nanking is that it is its own nominees to the Kwangsi Government who are now in revolt.

CLASH EXPECTED ON THE WEST RIVER.

[FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.]

CANTON, Oct. 1.

Another inter-Kwang war on a big scale is believed to be imminent, according to the latest reports from the West River districts. The first armed clash is expected at any moment in the upper part of the West River where the opposing armies are converging. The revolt of Chang Fat Fui and the "Ironsides" against Chiang Kai Shek and the Nanking regime appears to be gaining momentum, and it is now definite that Kwangsi and at least a portion of Kweichow are involved in the rebellion. Both Nanking and Canton have urged the Kwangsi Government to send troops northward into Hunan against the "Ironsides," but no notice has been taken of them. The "disappointment" in Canton official circles can be imagined when it is remembered that the present Kwangsi regime was installed with the help of Kwangtung armies. It is believed that the new regime never lost touch with the old "Kwangsi clique," and now there is a general alliance including, for the moment, such antagonistic elements as the militarists of the Wong Shiu Hung regime, the Left Wing of the Provincial Kuomintang and the "Ironsides." Slogans denouncing the Canton and Nanking Governments plaster the walls of Nanking and Wuchow and the spirit of revolt is spreading.

CHEN TSAI TONG'S
CONFIDENCE.

There is great uneasiness in Canton although General Chen Tsai Tong, Commander-in-Chief of the Kwangtung Armies, said in a speech yesterday before a large gathering in the Provincial Kuomintang Headquarters that the revolt of the "Ironsides" and their allies would be put down in less than a month. He denounced the "Kwangsi secessionists" and said that the Central Government will punish them severely. "The Armies of Kwangtung are an integral part of the Armies of the National Government and take their orders implicitly from Nanking. I firmly believe that Chang Fat Fui and his associates will be put to flight in a month."

The first of the Nanking troops of the First, Third and Eighth Divisions are expected in Canton tomorrow (Wednesday). Three or four thousand will arrive in the course of the next few days. Preparations for welcoming these new troops are being completed, all the principal thoroughfares in the city being placarded with slogans and cartoons expressing Canton's welcome. Anti-Chang Fat Fui slogans are also seen everywhere.

ADVANCE OF THE IRONSIDES.

Reports are current that the "Ironsides" have penetrated to Shenchowfu in western Hunan and are on their way to Kwangsi to join their allies there. They are planning to enter Kwangsi through Yungchow and Peking on the Tzu River. However, they are reported to have suffered a slight reverse at the hands of General Ho Chien's troops near Peking. Over a hundred of Chang Fat Fui's troops were killed and some forty taken prisoners. But their march southward has not been impeded to

CHEN MING SHU'S APPEAL.ONLY TEMPORARY
TROUBLES.BUT BANKNOTES SLUMP
TO 65.

[FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.]

CANTON, Oct. 1.

The Central Bank of China notes slumped to-day, to about 65 cents silver. Business in the city is almost at a standstill, but with silver as the ordinary currency prices are normal. Such silver as remains in the vaults of the Central Bank of China in Canton has been reserved for the war with Kwangsi and the "Ironsides" and the Government makes no announcement as to when it will redeem its banknotes.

General Chen Ming Shu in an interview with local Pressmen to-day said that the Government very much regrets the financial situation. He continued:

"Because of the continual trouble and unrest of the past ten years the Provincial Government of Kwangtung has not been able to win the confidence of the people in its banknotes. Whenever there is any military trouble, the Government banknotes are refused. This has happened time and again. It is a fact that the Central Bank of China in Canton has not yet been put on a financially sound basis, and is therefore not in a position to cope with financial panics. For this the Government tenders its sincerest apologies to the people."

But on the other hand what good does it do to people to distrust the Government? This last run on the Central Bank was in part at least caused by fear of Chang Fat Fui who is in the Upper Yangtze district, a thousand miles from Canton. Moreover, the trouble is only regional and does not affect the whole country. But the local Government has had to be prepared to meet any emergency, and troop movements have been necessary."

The exchanging of banknotes for silver has had to be suspended temporarily. People should appreciate the difficult position of the Government and try to help all they can. They should hold their banknotes and not sell at a great discount. I am sure in a month from now all the military trouble will be over, and the banknotes will be at par again. The Government is now going through a most trying time, and needs the support of every loyal citizen."

Commander Hole has been absent from the Harbour Office for the past four days owing to indisposition, but it was not till yesterday that the nature of his illness was announced. The Harbour Master was inoculated against typhoid some months ago and it is hoped that the attack will prove a mild one.

THE OPIUM TRADE.

ARMED ESCORTS FOR CARAVANS.

[FROM A CORRESPONDENT.]

KWANGSI, Sept. 22.

The opium trade in Posh is on the increase these last few months. Posh is perhaps the greatest centre for caravan opium trade in China. Just recently a caravan of over three hundred horses left for Kweichow, and each horse will return with an average load of 150 catties of opium. Opium sells here at fifty cents an ounce.

Each caravan needs a strong, well-armed escort of several hundred soldiers. While one can travel by motor-boat from Nanning to Posh, the condition of the country beyond Posh is very dangerous. Robber bands from Kweichow, Kwangsi, and Yunnan rove all the borders of these three provinces, and each province is too busy with internal trouble to attend to this state of affairs. A motor-road has been started from Posh and extends towards Nanning for nearly two hundred li, but since the defeat of the Wong Shao Hung regime nothing has been done to complete it.

FAMINE IN THE NORTH.

HELP URGENTLY NEEDED.

CHINESE CHAMBER TO RAISE FUNDS.

That the provinces of Shensi and Kansu have successively gone through a series of disasters, including devastation by civil war, floods, drought and failure of crop, is well known to all of us. Vivid details were, however, revealed in a letter received by the Chinese Chamber of Commerce recently.

At the monthly meeting of that body, held yesterday, this letter was read and made a deep impression on all present.

In all, ninety-two districts are affected and relief expeditions are urgently needed. Careful investigations had revealed that the death rate had been very high. In the Wu Kong district the population until recently was 200,000. Of this number, at least 40,000 to 50,000 have perished. The remainder of the population are on the verge of starvation and many are migrating, but as might be expected, they are encountering great hardships, and many who set out never reach their destination.

Not only had the crops failed, but the shortage of the grain had led to the seed reserve being used up. Now the autumn sowing is due and immediate help was necessary if the population were to have any crops next year.

At present, fifteen depots for the supply of congee had been established and the cost of keeping each depot was about $100 per day. The number of depots, however, was inadequate and more were required. It was stated that no less than 10,000 people are, at this very moment on the verge of starvation.

Often people who had made a long journey to one of the food depots collapsed on arrival, and cases were numerous of death at the very doors of the relief stations. Women with babies strapped to their back had been found dead on the roadside while the children who had been given such food as their parents carried were crying feebly, still strapped to the dead bodies of their mothers.

The local Chinese Chamber of Commerce is organising a relief fund in collaboration with the Tung Wah Hospital and donations small and large will be very welcome.

CHINESE CHAMBER OF COMMERCE.BANKERS WANT HOLIDAY
ON OCTOBER 10.GENEROUS BENEFACTOR'S LIBRARY GIFT.

The usual monthly meeting of the Chinese Chamber of Commerce was held yesterday, Mr. Li Yick Mui taking the chair. Others present included Mr. Chau Yau Teng, Vice-Chairman, Mr. M. K. Lo, Mr. Ho Lu, Mr. Kwok Siu Lau, Mr. Ip Lan Chuen, Mr. Leung Pat Yue, Mr. Li Hoi Tung, Mr. Yeung Pik Chue, Mr. Tang Shiu Kin and Mr. Chan Heung Pak (Secretary).

A number of letters were read, the most interesting being one from the Chinese Bankers Association, asking the Chamber to make representations to the authorities that October 10, Chinese National Day, be declared a public holiday.

The Bankers' Association pointed out that all labourers will be on holiday and all native banks and hongs will suspend business and it would be convenient for all concerned to have the day made a holiday.

The Chairman informed the meeting that the matter had already been brought to the notice of the Chinese representatives on the Legislative Council, and he understood that there was every possibility of the day being declared a holiday.

It was announced that Mr. Fung Ping Shan has presented 2,000 volumes of the Man Yau Man Fu (a fur of Chinese encyclopaedia) to the Chamber's library. The Chairman expressed appreciation of the gift which was very timely as the Chamber had in mind the purchasing of these books at an early date.

A petition from hawkers in Kowloon, Kowloon, asked if the Chamber could use their influence and get hawkers the use of this street for their business, now that the intended motor-bus service through this road has been abandoned. It was stated that the Chamber has placed the matter before the S.C.A. and the question is under consideration.

ROW IN TEMPLE STREET.

MR. T. GIBBISON AND A RICKSHA COOLIE.

Mr. T. Gibbison, was summoned for alleged assault on a ricksha coolie on August 27 at Temple Street, before Mr. T. S. Whyte at the Kowloon Magistracy, yesterday.

A further accusation of maliciously damaging the cushion and side screens of the ricksha was made against the defendant, who denied all counts.

Giving evidence, the ricksha coolie said that he was waiting in Temple Street, near Bowring Street with several other ricksha coolies. At about 2 a.m. the defendant arrived in a ricksha which he discharged without paying his fare. Defendant approached witness's ricksha and attempted to get in, but as he was not the first of the queue he refused to take the defendant. The defendant then kicked him and he ran away. Defendant knocked the ricksha over, tore the side screens and took out the seat. Witness followed him to Nathan Road and at the junction of Jordan Road defendant threw the cushion away after tearing the cloth. Witness tried to pick it up, but defendant stopped him. A European sergeant arrived on the scene and both parties were taken to the Police Station.

"Will Set Fire To It."

Sergeant Allen said that when he approached the defendant told him that the ricksha coolie had refused hire. The coolie complained that the defendant had torn his cushion cover. The defendant admitted the damage remarking "That's quite correct. I have torn it and I have a box of matches and will set fire to it."

He was asked if he would pay compensation but he refused and added "I will not be deterred by an Asiatic." At the Police Station, defendant was again asked by sub-inspector Cotton if he would pay compensation but he refused.

Ricksha Not Damaged.

Defendant told the Court that the ricksha was not damaged. Evidence was also given by Sgt. Buckler who was on charge room duty at the time. He corroborated the last witness's evidence. The hearing was then adjourned until to-day for sub-inspector Cotton to be called.

A WAR MYSTERY

EXPLAINED.

In spite of all the revelations made since the Russian Revolution regarding pre-war diplomacy and intrigue, there are still many things unexplained, relating to events in 1914. As to the actual origin of the war there is now general agreement that responsibility was divided. HERR defined tragedy as the conflict of right with right, and Dr. Goebbels, the eminent English historian, came to the conclusion—after reading the apologies of some 300 writers of various nationalities—that all the Powers participating in the Great War were moved by genuine fears, and in the circumstances acted precisely as they might have been expected to act. There is, however, a mystery concerning the earliest stages of the war which has not been cleared up—that is, why Germany took a step which it was obvious would bring about tremendous consequences in making an enemy of every country with regard for public law. New light on German operations at the beginning of the war and the invasion of Belgium has been shed by the well-known author and politician, Professor JOHANN VICTOR BREDT, in his book entitled "Belgian Neutrality and the Schlieffen Campaign Plan."

It has been a well-known fact for years that Germany did not undertake the attack on Belgium on a sudden impulse, but that the march through that country was foreseen by the strategic plan adopted in peace-time for a general military conflict. This plan was called the Schlieffen plan after its author, Chief of General Staff Count ALFRED VON SCHLIEFFEN, and was drawn up in 1905. The backbone of the scheme was an irresistible advance on the Western front which, in order to be successful, had to be conducted through Belgium. The Franco-German frontier was, in effect, too heavily fortified to make a quick decision possible.

Count SCHLIEFFEN was convinced that a quick decision was necessary, as Germany would most probably have to fight Russia, France, and probably England. Her enemies in any case would be superior. In such circumstances Germany could be victorious only if she thrust her whole military force against the weakest and most vital point of the enemy's defence line before the numeric strength of the latter began to work.

Under the SCHLIEFFEN plan, the whole German army was to be thrown in action on the Belgian front. The Eastern frontier was to be left practically unprotected—in fact, SCHLIEFFEN hoped that final victory could be achieved before Russia had completed the mobilization of her army. Critics of the SCHLIEFFEN plan agree that it was a strategic masterpiece. Once Germany was faced by the necessity of fighting East and West—and after the conclusion of the Russo-French Alliance there was no room for doubt that this would be the case—she only could hope to win if she did not divide her forces. This was the strategy of FREDERICK the Great. But whatever the merits of the SCHLIEFFEN plan were from the military point of view, it entailed a line of action which could not be but disastrous politically. Germany was pledged to protect Belgian neutrality. An unprovoked attack on her small neighbour was bound to put Germany in the worst light. How could the General Staff adopt a plan the execution of which was sure to make the whole civilized world Germany's enemy? It seemed fantastic, inconceivable.

Professor BREDT in his book attempts to clear up this mystery. He sets out to prove that SCHLIEFFEN, for one, was aware of the political danger pertaining to a violation of Belgian neutrality. He produces evidence to the effect that SCHLIEFFEN himself proposed an important restriction of his plan. He insisted that the German army should not attack immediately after mobilisation, but simply march up to the Belgian frontier. He assumed that the French, appalled, frightened by this move and anticipating an attack, would rush into Belgian territory to protect Belgium. Once this had happened, Germany could easily interpret it as a violation of Belgian neutrality on the part of the French. An invasion by the German army, then, would be nothing but a reprisal.

Professor BREDT thinks that this reservation was the most important part of the SCHLIEFFEN plan. He submits that, if all went according to SCHLIEFFEN, Germany would have given up the whole plan had the French not gone into the trap. But the General Staff seems to have felt uneasy about this point. After SCHLIEFFEN took his retirement in 1905 strong forces were set in motion to make the campaign plan unconditional on France's attitude, whatever the political consequences would be. The KAISER gave his agreement, and the real SCHLIEFFEN plan was accordingly modified in 1906. It is a characteristic fact that the Civil Government was not notified of the change. The KAISER and his military advisers were aware that the Chancellor, Prince BUELOW, was not the man to approve of such a hazardous plan. BUELOW was not regarded as loyal; he lacked blind obedience to the throne, a quality the KAISER prized most in his "servants." BUELOW's successor, BETHMANN HOLLWEG, was a different man. He was deemed sufficiently reliable to share the important secret. He was informed about it in 1912, two years before the war—and BETHMANN HOLLWEG did not protest.

The front appearance of the Astor House Hotel, Tientsin, is now beginning to look quite attractive, the general improvement scheme having been carried out to match as much as possible the stately stone Annex of the Hotel. When the entrance in the Hotel is finished, which it is expected will be within a week or two, the somewhat old-fashioned and mid-Victorian architecture will have vanished, and the appearance of an up-to-date and modern hotel will have taken its place. The windows of the rooms facing Victoria Park on the upper floor are being enlarged to allow of more light, and the building, in general, is being strengthened. In addition, the front entrance is both attractive and inviting.

Edelweiss, the famous Swiss mountain flower, is threatened with extinction, due chiefly to the ravages of tourists. Several Alpine regions where the plant formerly flourished have reported that it is now very rare. Edelweiss does not spread rapidly, even under normal conditions. A Bavarian botanist estimated recently that in a certain mountain area there were 26,000 roots of edelweiss in 1920. At the end of 1923, he said, only 600 remained. German tourists are said to be the worst enemies of the flower. They pull up the plant by the roots, hoping to transplant it at home.

With Great Britain's greatest aeronautical season in history drawing to a close, it has just been revealed to the surprise of many that Vickers, Limited, the great shipbuilding concern, financed the construction of the giant R100 and constructed the Schneider Cup racer Supermarine Rolls Royce S.S. The Airship Guarantee Company, which built the R100, is owned solely by Vickers, a recent report revealed. An official of the company pointed out at the same time that the giant ship was constructed at a great loss, the actual cost far exceeding first estimates. The public was also astonished to learn that the Schneider racer was also constructed by Vickers through a subsidiary company. It is recalled that Vickers have constructed a number of ships for Chile, shipbuilding being the trade in which they were known to the public before the recent announcements.

Every family in the Yorkshire village of Baldon had stew for dinner on September 7. It was all cooked in the same cauldron in which the villagers are claimed to have made "stew" in history. Five hundred pounds of meat, 600 pounds of peas, 300 pounds of potatoes, and 36 pounds of onions were blended together in a huge, specially constructed tank. The occasion was the revival of the Baldon gipsy party after a lapse of 34 years. In the sixteenth century, the Baldon gipsy party was an annual gathering of gipsy tribes which had camped on the surrounding moors. The stew at that time was made mainly of game which had been bagged on private preserves. Plain pots of stew were sold last month at nine-pence. It is planned to make the "stew" an annual event.

Looking Back 25 Years.

Yesterday there was a prize-fight on a Chinese island in the vicinity of British territory, the combatants being Jack Burke and MacPhee. Sam Newman was timekeeper, and a gentleman whose name was given as Mr. Barnes for referee. The fight, which was attended by large company of sportsmen from Hong Kong, resolved itself into a fiasco, owing chiefly to the referee. In the first and second rounds Burke gave better than he got, putting in several hard jabs on the jaw as well as a number of punishing body blows. In the third round MacPhee assumed the attack. He landed an upper-cut on his opponent's jaw, followed up with a right-handed swing, meant for the kidneys, Burke faint and put in a blow for the wind which MacPhee parried, with the result that MacPhee's fist came down on his opponent's stomach. Loud cries were raised for "foul," the contention being that the punch was below the belt. The referee in the first place admitted that Burke was right, and pronounced in favour of the fight proceeding. Later he appeared to be overcome by the voices of parties outside the ring, and gave judgment for MacPhee. The combat broke up in some disorder. Hong Kong Daily Press, Oct. 3, 1904.

Looking Back 50 Years.

They manage these things better in France. It seems that in Saigon the undertaking business is conducted by the Municipality, but the arrangements have not been altogether satisfactory and some difficulty has been experienced in getting horses for service at funerals. The matter was recently discussed in the Municipal Council and one of the members suggested that instead of paying the surveyor 600 francs in cash for carriage allowances, they should place at his disposal two horses which should always be available for funerals. In Hong Kong we have a private undertaker; otherwise we might effect an economy by following the example of our Saigon friends and giving some of our officials the use of the horse-drawn carriages instead of the horse and chair allowance which totals up to such a large sum in our Estimates. MR. WESTERHEIM IN SHANGHAI.

DRAMATIC RESCUE BY SOLDIERS.

BATTERED WITH STONES.

[THROUGH REUTER'S AGENCY.]

SHANGHAI, October 1.

Mr. Westerheim, of the ill-fated Botnia, arrived in Shanghai this morning, and was immediately sent to hospital.

It is learned that when the Chinese soldiers pressed on his captors, the latter conveyed him to a cave from which he attempted to escape.

In a fight with the guards he received severe blows on the head, from a large stone. The soldiers finally traced the pirates to their lair, and rescued Mr. Westerheim after a sharp fight, in which several casualties occurred on both sides.

The military captured two of the gang, and brought them to Mr. Westerheim for identification, and then summarily shot them on the beach.

Mr. Westerheim's wounds are not expected to prove fatal. In this connection, it is noteworthy that Capt. Hnaland was also battered on the head with a stone, and left for dead, before the pirates abandoned him during their flight.

However, it is pleasing to know that both are now recovering.

A SPLENDID RESCUE.

EXCITEMENT IN NEW ORLEANS.

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 30.

After standing by throughout a night of terrible weather in the wake of the hurricane, the coast-guard ship Sauke succeeded in rescuing all the twenty-eight members of the crew of the Danish cargo-steamer Scandia, which was wrecked on the treacherous Molasses Reef by the hurricane.

There is little prospect, it is feared, of saving the cargo of the "Scandia" which consisted of three and a half million gallons of fuel oil. The Scandia is a petroleum steamer of over 8,000 tons.

REPRISALS IN CHEFOO.

TERRIBLE STORIES FROM THE NORTH.

WOMEN CUT TO PIECES.

[THROUGH REUTER'S AGENCY.]

CHEFOO, Oct. 1.

Military operations were recently undertaken by troops under Liu Chien Nien against bands of "Red Spears" in the district between Hwanghsien and Tengchowfu, south of the Chefoo-Weihaiwei motor road.

Many conflicting reports are current as regards the burning of villages and killing of inhabitants. It is known, however, that the Senior Consul on September 28, interviewed Liu Chien Nien, requesting him to intervene on humanitarian grounds. A representative of the Chinese Chamber of Commerce has also interviewed Liu Chien Nien.

A report from American missionary sources states that eighteen villages which were linked up with Siga (one of the centres of the Red Spears movement), were all burned, some worse than others.

At Siga it is reported that even women with babies in arms, who fled to the cornfields, were cut to pieces by soldiers. The operations apparently are not yet over. To date it is stated that altogether eighty villages have been more or less burned, or the houses looted.

BERLIN, Sept. 30.

A plebiscite is being held in Germany between October 18 and 19 on the "Bill Against the Enslavement of the German People," which repudiates all post-war treaties and agreements.

The plebiscite is due to the Nationalist campaign in favour of the Bill, which stipulates that any German Minister or plenipotentiary signing an agreement imposing burdens on Germany will be liable to trial for high treason.

The deficit, however, is nearly £4,000,000 less than for the same period last year, and experts are of the opinion that the situation is not unsatisfactory.

Maginot, Minister for the Colonies, in a speech at Bar le Duc, declared that premature evacuation of the Third Zone of the Rhineland, under the Hague Agreement, was strictly conditional upon the French and German Parliaments' ratification of the Young Plan.

Therefore, the French troops would remain until the Young Plan operated.

UNEMPLOYMENT IN BRITAIN.

MR. THOMAS CLAIMS A CURE.

"AN ATTACK" EXPECTED.

[THROUGH REUTER'S AGENCY.]

LONDON, Oct. 1.

Addressing the Labour Party Conference to-day, Mr. J. H. Thomas stressed the difficulties of tackling the unemployment problem.

Despite the flattery heaped on the Labour Government, the real attack, he said, was coming on the unemployment issue, when Parliament re-assembled.

Mr. Thomas emphasised that progress was being made with the municipal road and Colonial schemes, which were producing results. It was not merely paper talk but was actually providing employment.

Salesmanship.

Mr. Thomas later divulged that he took a shipload of British coal with him on his recent visit to Canada which the Canadian railways tested. He encountered a position from the Nova Scotia colliers, but brought back samples of Nova Scotia coal, in order to demonstrate that a blend of British and Nova Scotia coal would benefit Canada.

He also interviewed steel importers, and secured a promise of orders, which he had not so far announced, with a view to preventing the Americans jumping into the market, and offering to undersell.

He hoped that Lancashire would benefit from his Canadian trip, inasmuch as the British cotton industry had been hampered by Canadian Imperial Preference, given conditionally upon 50 per cent. of the labour used in an article being British. This condition was impossible, as raw cotton was mostly purchased outside the Empire.

Mr. Thomas hoped he would be able to say definitely that raw material would henceforth be excluded from those conditions. He confessed that he was disturbed by the increase of the Bank Rate, which, moreover, was not likely to achieve its object.

WHAT "LABOUR" STANDS FOR.

LONDON, Sept. 29.

The untiring attempt of British Communists to "communist" the Labour Party and to twist its programme into a more radical path will be dealt a decisive death blow to-morrow when the twenty-ninth annual conference of the Labour Party opens at Brighton.

The Labour Party will fight the spectre of radical and Communist influence by a drastic measure—excluding members of the Communist Party and other radical organisations from conferences of the Labour Party.

These proposals are contained in a new Labour Constitution, which without a doubt will be adopted. They hit right at the fountain-head of the radical element troubling the Labour Party and which threatens its future success at the polls.

Through provision that no specific proposals of legislative, financial, administrative reform can be included in the party programme without the two-thirds consent of the conference of the Labour Party, the Radical and Communist element is definitely weeded out of the Labour roster.

Although the new Constitution which comes up for consideration to-morrow and the three succeeding days was ordered two years ago, the special measures directed at the result of bitter accusations made at the last general election by the Conservatives and Liberals.

The proposals directed at the radical element of the party is but one of many others aimed to solidify the party and insure party discipline. The new constitution also definitely states that the name of the party is the Labour Party, despite the fact that many of the Liberals and Conservatives insist on terming it the "Socialist Party."

The Constitution lays down more complete regulations as to membership in the party, ensuring a more harmonious conception of the party's policies.

It is interesting to note that provision is made for National Association Members to be enrolled at the discretion of the Executive Committee. It is believed this class of membership was provided to care for cases like the recent desertion of Sir William Jowett from the ranks of the Liberal Party to join the Labour Cabinet.

The objects of the Party, according to the new Constitution, include "to secure for the producers by hand or brain the full fruits of their industry, and the most equitable distribution thereof that may be possible, upon the basis of common ownership of the means of production and distribution, and the best obtainable system of popular administration and control of each industry or service."

THE BANK RATE QUESTION.

VIEWS OF SIR OSWALD MOSLEY.

HOW TO CONTROL CREDIT.

[THROUGH REUTER'S AGENCY.]

LONDON, October 1.

That the increased Bank Rate will intensify the Government's difficulties was emphasised to-day by Sir Oswald Mosley in a speech at Hove.

He declared that the Bank of England, with its present power, could deprive two men of work for every one the Government provided with employment. Also, he stated, that the Labour Party policy on the question was now supported by some of the leading organs in the city.

He himself believed that it was possible to control credit without endangering the financial stability of the country.

FOREIGNERS ON INLAND WATERS.

STEPS TAKEN FOR ABOLITION OF PRIVILEGE.

Nanking.—Replying to a telegram of the Shanghai Navigation Association urging that steps be taken for the abolition of the privilege of inland navigation by foreigners, the Ministry of Communications, in a telegram to the association yesterday, states that it is co-operating with the Ministry of Foreign Affairs in endeavouring to bring about the removal of this handicap of the development of Chinese shipping.

The telegram declares that such privilege will not be granted in the new Treaties to be concluded between China and foreign Powers.

Nanking.—Foreigners residing in the interior of the country, will shortly lose the privilege of acting as chartered accountants in the auditing of accounts or as auditors, according to a set of regulations now being formulated by the Ministry of Industry, Commerce and Labour, in conjunction with the Ministry of Foreign Affairs.

FRENCH SALE OF WAR MATERIAL.

WAR DEPARTMENT PILLORIED BY PRESS.

PARIS, Sept. 29. Large stocks of obsolete war material are offered for sale by public auction, which is to take place on October 11.

The war material includes Winchester rifles, carbines and rifles of other makes dating from the years 1860 to 1875 together with bayonets and nearly 20,000,000 rounds of ammunition. French citizens and resident foreigners are admitted as bidders on the condition that their purchases must be exported abroad within one year.

The Press generally condemns the disposal of this war material by public sale. The paper Matin demands that the arms with which several divisions of soldiers can be equipped, be destroyed, saying "while diplomats are endeavouring to liquidate the outstanding war problems, the French military administration throws on the market large quantities of unused war material with which the reactionaries of many countries will be glad to arm themselves."

"Generally to promote the political, social and economic emancipation of the people, and more particularly of those who depend upon their own exertions by hand or brain for the means of life." Mr. Herbert Morrison, Minister of Transport, will be Chairman of the Conference. It is interesting to note that Mr. Ramsay MacDonald was renominated for treasurer of the party by thirty organisations. He will be unopposed.

SHEARER DENIES SUGGESTIONS.

"VIGOROUS THUNDER" AT TRIAL.

U.S. NAVAL SCANDAL.

[REUTER'S AMERICAN SERVICE.]

WASHINGTON, Oct. 1.

"You have raked the sewers of London and New York in order to ruin me," thundered William Shearer vigorously, when denying questions put at the Senate enquiry alleging that he was the associate of international crooks, but he said he "supposed" that he had been arrested in America as a spy. He admitted that he was arrested on the dock where a yacht was unloading whisky.

Shearer said that shipbuilders offered to pay him $5,000 yearly to go to Geneva and then turn the necessity of a Navy Merchant Marine into the American public. He denied trying sabotage at the Geneva Conference.

Rear Admiral Reeves also gave evidence and said that he desired the success of the Conference.

SMEDLEY-BUTLER CRITICISED.

TRENCHANT PRESS COMMENTS.

"ENTHUSIASTIC AND FLIGHTY MARINES."

[United Press.]

Peking.—Major-General Smedley Butler is the object of scornful and ironical comment in the English-language newspapers of North China, following the publication here of General Butler's own story of his experiences as commander of the U.S. Marines in China during the crisis of 1927-8.

The most severe attack upon General Butler's story is made by Charles James Fox, American editor of the American newspaper in Tientsin, the North China Star. Tientsin was General Butler's headquarters during most of his stay in China.

"Alone in Tientsin."

In an editorial entitled "Alone in Tientsin," Dr. Fox says:—"Like many of our local subscribers who are familiar with the facts we have been reading with a good deal of amusement Major-General Smedley's own account of his recent exploits here in Tientsin. As a cat may remind one of a tiger, so General Butler's yarns of his expedition to North China sound somewhat like the story of the Rough Riders in Cuba, written just after he returned from the Spanish-American War."

"And, as Dooley dubbed the Roosevelt story 'Alone in Cuba,' so we feel that Butler's yarns might well be entitled 'Alone in Tientsin.'"

"Really, there were others in Cuba besides the then Lieutenant-Colonel Roosevelt and his Rough Riders, and during the recent crisis in Tientsin, there were also others besides the then Brigadier-General Butler and his Marines. We had then, as we have now, the Fifteenth U.S. Infantry, who, like the battalion of Marines in the Legation Guard, because of their long service in and around Tientsin or Peking, and their resulting knowledge of local conditions, were in a far better position to render real effective service in an emergency than were the enthusiastic and somewhat flighty marines."

Mis-statements Alleged.

"Incidentally, the Fifteenth Infantry has been in North China for about a generation, through all kinds of serious emergencies, and to the best of our knowledge has also 'never fired a shot.' But the Fifteenth doesn't 'shoot off its face' about the unfired shot."

"The North China Standard in Peking is more serious in its comment upon General Butler's articles which appeared in local newspapers as well as in the United States. This paper plainly accuses General Butler of making 'obvious and ridiculous mis-statements.'"

"It must indeed be disconcerting to the U.S. Marines, stationed in Peking and to the members of the American Legation here, to have General Butler permit himself wordy indiscretions in print," says the Standard.

After detailing a number of statements made by General Butler which the Standard declares are definitely untrue, the paper continues: "The only conclusion open to us is to believe General Butler was misquoted (by a ghost-writer). Perhaps the resultant embarrassment will convince him of the dangers which beset the path of a responsible officer who engages in public writing about his profession."

TERRORISM IN MANCHURIA.

RUSSIAN YOUTHS AND WOMEN ARRESTED.

SEQUEL TO BATTLE IN FOREST.

[United Press.]

A group of Russian young men and women, none of them more than 22 years of age, has been arrested in the forests of North Manchuria by Chinese police and soldiers, charged with directing terrorist acts which seriously interfered with the operation of the Chinese Eastern Railway since the Soviet Union broke off diplomatic relations with China.

The group was traced to the forest after an attempt upon the life of P. Shishkin, a Russian in the employ of the Chinese police at Harbin, in which the group is charged with committing.

The Surrender.

In the fight with Chinese police in the forest, two of the group escaped after firing several shots, but the rest finally surrendered. The Chinese police claim that they have obtained information from the captives which reveals the plans for a wide-spread reign of terror in North Manchuria, directed particularly against the Chinese Eastern Railway.

The leader of the band, according to the Chinese police, was a man named Jdanoff, one of the many student-interpreters sent to Harbin by Moscow to learn the Chinese language. He is believed also to have been the chief organizer of terrorist gangs in support of the Soviet cause.

When discovered, the band was living in tents, where paraffin, ammunition, pistols, ignition cords, electric wire, and other paraphernalia for sabotage against the railway were found. The Chinese police declare. The suspects were brought to Harbin, and are imprisoned here.

Red and White Feuds.

The attempt upon the life of Shishkin reveals one of the many tales of feuds between Red and White Russians with which this city abounds. Shishkin arrived in Harbin in 1924 from Vladivostok where he had held important positions in Soviet institutions, and was at once appointed a member of the Trade Union Council here. In 1926, he became a member of the commission examining application for Soviet citizenship in the Soviet Consulate-General, with access to consular files.

But toward the end of 1926, a Russian girl friend of Shishkin quarrelled with him, and told Soviet authorities that he was really anti-Bolshevik and was acting secretly as informant to the Chinese police. He was dismissed, and a wholesale shifting of trade union executives followed.

Shishkin, outlived by the Soviets, openly became an agent for the Chinese police, and is said to have given them much valuable information about Soviet activities. It was stated here that he had valuable documents from the Soviet Consulate which he held secret.

It is surmised that the "Young Communists," whose leaders were captured in the forest, decided that he was too dangerous to the Soviet cause, and resolved to get him out of the way. The attempt on his life was made in daylight on Harbin's principal street by a young man riding in an automobile who fired a pistol at him, wounding him in the back.

BANDITS STILL ACTIVE.

RUSSIAN DESPERADOES.

[United Press.]

Harbin.—A dozen groups of determined bandits, headed by "White Russian desperadoes" and consisting chiefly of Russians, have appeared along the western line of the Chinese Eastern Railway, and are robbing farms and villages in extensive districts, according to reports of travellers returning here.

White Russian bandits have existed for years, but the recent Sino-Russian controversy, together with increasing poverty among Russians in Harbin and elsewhere, has stimulated their growth to an unprecedented extent.

Daring and Thorough.

The Russian robbers are described as more daring and thorough than their Chinese counterparts. They take off not only money but farm produce and everything else they can lay their hands on.

Among the farms robbed are several experimental farms, where modern methods of agriculture were being introduced into North Manchuria.

The robbers have held up and robbed a number of caravans of carts in which produce is brought to market. They take not only the produce, but the horses and carts themselves. Most of the bandits are mounted, and are always anxious to add to the horses in their possession.

SHANGHAI BOWLERS AT K.C.C.

EXCITING LAST MINUTE STRUGGLE.

NARROW WIN FOR HOME TEAM.

A victory by two shots was gained by the Kowloon C.C. lawn bowlers team in the first official match played with the Shanghai visitors yesterday. Scoring was low, and the home team were getting the better of it up to the fifteenth head, when they were leading 13-9, the six gained four two's. The six gained by the visitors were singles.

Somewhat the visitors failed to settle down, and the game did not hold much interest until the last heads when Shanghai chances of winning seemed bright. In the eighteenth head Shanghai had almost five counting woods, Phillips having the first about a foot away from the jack, while Dorrance drew in with his woods. Silkstone was responsible for saving the situation by getting in for the third shot.

Shanghai's Big "XII."

The nineteenth head brought four shots for Shanghai. Kowloon had two woods near the jack when the visiting skip carried the jack to count three. Silkstone sent in a pretty shot on the proper green, but unfortunately it was a little short. Malcolm ran after his last wood, coaxing it along with his amusing patter, to the delight of the spectators. "Attaboy!" shouted a voice when the result was announced as four. Shanghai were then only one shot behind.

The twentieth head saw Jessiman get a touchy almost, beside the jack. Hyde-Lay made a good attempt, but only turned the wood round. Fraser succeeded in knocking out the shot with a beautiful wood. The visiting skip in attempting to enter on the fore-hand was unfortunate to move up an opposition wood for the second counter, and his next effort the other way saw the wood go through.

In the last head Phillips drew the shot, but their No. 3 was short each time. Skip Malcolm made a great effort to get in both his woods, but he was not successful in adding any more to the single.

Welcoming the visitors and inviting them to make full use of the Kowloon C.C. grounds, Mr. Abraham (Vice-President) said that Shanghai had an uphill fight in which good bowling was seen. They made a wonderful recovery towards the end, and there was enough excitement to make it anybody's game. He then asked Mrs. Fraser to present silver spoons to the visiting players as mementoes of the occasion, cheers following the presentation.

Shanghai Captain's Tribute.

Mr. Malcolm thanked Mr. Abraham and the Committee of the Club for the hospitality again extended to his team. He congratulated the K.C.C. on their victory, which he said was very creditable seeing they had beaten a representative team from Shanghai. He had expected to pull it off at the last moment, but failed.

After presenting souvenir spoons to the Kowloon team, Mr. Malcolm called on his men and all friends present to join in cheers for the winners. The response was so hearty that he remarked he hoped there would be as many friends on his side next Saturday!

Craigengower Cricket Club are receiving the visitors to-day in the second official game. F. J. Neves (No. 1), Buchanan (No. 2), W. T. Brightman (No. 3), and U. M. Omer (Skip) are the home team selections. The match will be followed by a dinner in honour of the visitors in the spacious hall, which has just been re-floored.

LAWN TENNIS.

THE MIXED DOUBLES CHAMPIONSHIP.

POINTS OF THE DRAW.

The draw for the Open Mixed Doubles Championship of the Colony, entries for which closed on September 30, was held yesterday, and resulted as follows:—

First Quarter.

Miss Enid Lo and M. K. Lo bye.
Mrs. Chiu Tsun Chiu and Ho Ka Lau v. Mrs. James and A. D. Humphreys.

Second Quarter.

Mrs. Sawyer and E. C. Fischer v. Miss G. Lo and M. W. Lo.
Mr. and Mrs. Hambley v. Mrs. McCaw and T. Lay.

Third Quarter.

Mrs. Tottenham and Major Lucas v. Mrs. Adams and A. H. Crook.
Miss C. Botelho and S. A. Rum-jahn v. Mrs. Gull and H. D. Rum-jahn.

Fourth Quarter.

Mrs. Miles and L. Goldman v. Mrs. Taylor and J. S. McEachern.
Mrs. Bradbury and H. Lo v. Miss Hecney and G. W. Sewell.

The first round ties are fixed to be played between October 7 and 17, and the second round between the 18th and 25, while the dates for the semi-finals and finals, which will be held at the Chinese Recreation Club, will be fixed later. For any first or second round match the first named pair has the option to select the venue.

Prospects of the Games.

Neither last year's champions (Miss Enid Lo and M. W. Lo) nor runners-up (Dr. and Mrs. Tottenham) have entered together, so that the competition should prove extremely keen. Several new pairs are entered, and these, on their recent performances, are strong combinations.

In the first quarter, Miss Enid Lo and M. K. Lo should have little difficulty in qualifying for the semi-finals. For the other semi-final place in the second quarter, it is extremely difficult to forecast who will be successful. Mrs. Sawyer and E. C. Fischer, Mrs. McCaw and T. Lay, both of which sides come from Kowloon C.C., are exceptionally good, but they will have to reckon with Miss G. Lo and M. W. Lo.

Mrs. Tottenham and Major Lucas appear to be the best pair in the third quarter, the only likely opposition possibly being Mrs. Gull and H. D. Rumjahn. In the last quarter, Mrs. Taylor and J. S. McEachern are fancied. They have done very well at practice of late and should have a good chance for the championship.

U.S. BASEBALL.

SENATORS HEAVILY WALLOPED BY THE YANKEES

New York, September 29.—With only two games scheduled in each major league to-day, the American League will have a clean slate tomorrow because all contests have been called off in memory of the late Miller Huggins.

New York walloped the Senators 13-2 today with the aid of four Washington errors. The Senators' erratic fielding coupled with the Yankees' slugging accounted for the result. Five of the Senators fanned.

Ruth, Gehrig and Dickey tripled in the course of the game. The champion Athletics won over the tail-ender Red Sox 5-3. Simmons of the Athletics hit a home run. Reeves of the Red Sox twice doubled, twice singled and scored once.

In the American League, with two out in the ninth inning Fafay of the Cardinals singled and then stole second. Self doubled and scored for the winning run in a 2-1 finish.

The Phillies got five hits and four runs in the fifth inning and Brooklyn was snowed under in the seventh when five more were scored. Frederick of the Dodgers hit a home run but it wasn't enough to stave off ignominious 3-12 defeat.

The following are the detailed results of to-day's games:—

American League.

Clubs	R.	H.	E.
New York	10	14	0
Washington	2	9	4
Philadelphia	6	12	0
Boston	3	11	2

National League.

Clubs	R.	H.	E.
Brooklyn	3	10	2

FOOTBALL.

KOWLOON BEATEN BY K.O.S.B.

On the Railway Ground yesterday the Borderers inflicted a decisive defeat upon their hosts, scoring two goals in each half without response. The games was not quite so one-sided as the score may suggest, and had Eastman managed to take advantage of two openings in the first ten minutes a much more even game would have been witnessed. The Borderers however are going to be a very big proposition for any Club to tackle this year, and the whole forward line played together in irresistible style, McGlinchey again being the star. The Kowloon forward kept the ball far too close, and although there was no lack of individual effort, the line as a whole failed to work together with the precision of their opponents.

Opening exchanges proved very even, Gillet and Pile resisting several onslaughts on the home goal, while Eastman was extremely unlucky after a dashing run through the defence, the ball bouncing awkwardly just as he was about to shoot, with the result that his effort sailed high over the crossbar. The same player came through again with a great run, but his final effort was weak.

An injury to Stock caused a short stoppage of the game, but he was able to resume after attention. The Borderers proceeded to force the pace, chiefly through McGlinchey and Alexander, these two forwards being responsible for some delightful combination. Everest gave a greatly improved display at centre forward, his dashing methods being a constant source of anxiety to a hard worked defence. Great work by McKelvie, Pile and Gillet, kept the visitors at bay until just before the interval, when Torrie added a point with a fine centre which struck the far upright and rebounded into the net.

Half Time:—Kowloon 0, K.O.S.B. 2.

The game had only been resumed a few minutes when the Borderers added to their lead through Stock, who shot from just inside the penalty area. Campbell in the Kowloon goal was at fault in this instance, but he could hardly be blamed a few minutes later, when Everest headed a fine goal from Torrie's centre. McKelvie changed places with Gillet at this stage, and the move resulted in an offensive by the home team. Hedley, Eastman and Miles each made determined efforts to get through, but there was a lack of system about their work. Towards the close the Borderers again assumed command with Torrie and Everest well to the fore.

Result:—Kowloon 0, K.O.S.B. 4.
Kowloon: Campbell, Gillet, Pile, Eastman, Hedley, Gallagher, Miles, and Simpson.

K.O.S.B.: Shears, Gardner, Reeves, Gear, Davey, Skiggs, Torrie, Stock, Everest, McGlinchey and Alexander.

A WIDOW'S COMPENSATION.

80 PER CENT. TAKEN AWAY.

SEQUEL TO CASE AGAINST BRITISH SOLDIER.

SHANGHAI, Sept. 25.

The widow of the late Chang Hsueh Liang, who was granted $5,000 by H.M. Government as a result of his death, which it is alleged was caused by British soldiers and for participation in which Pte. Price of the Wiltshire Regiment was sentenced to one year's imprisonment, has been mulcted of more than 80 per cent. of the amount by Chinese "patriots." It will be recalled that the widow and her son were to receive the money through the Bureau of Foreign Affairs to which body H.M. agents had handed the "compassionate grant."

When the agitation concerning the matter was at its height, three members of the 6th District of the Kuomintang, who were prominent in the support of, or were members of, the "Support committee of the Chang Hsueh Liang Case" continued to urge all Chinese bodies to assist them in securing redress for the alleged wrong.

During these activities they wrote to the Public Safety Bureau to the effect that the deceased's family was being approached by two fellow provincials with alleged bills which they said that deceased had incurred.

In their communication they asked the Bureau to despatch four constables to protect the family from the machinations of the alleged extortioners. The Chinese police complied with the request and sent a detail of men.

The three men prevailed on the constables to do as they wished, and as a result, the family virtually were prisoners and were detained in a dwelling in Chinese territory, their captors meanwhile continuing to shriek for compensation.

After the money had been paid to the Bureau of Foreign Affairs, two of the three men accompanied them to the office. The widow received the money duly, under guard, and her son still under guard, were taken to a lodging house near the Small East Gate. The captors forced the widow to hand over $4,000 as they stated to recompense them for the expenses incurred by them while furthering her cause.

The two Chinese who asserted that they had claims against the estate, heard of the transaction and berated those who got the money, without however coming to blows. In consequence the three members of the Kuomintang laid a complaint with the Bureau of Public Safety and the two provincials were arrested. The Chinese authorities brought the widow and her son to identify the prisoners, but she and her son said that these were not the men who had taken her money, but that the three accusers were the actual culprits.

When the leader of the gang who had made the accusations, failed to prosecute his case, he was arrested and charged with having defrauded the widow. The Kuomintang used their influence and after two weeks secured his release, without his having stood trial. Nothing has been heard of the fate of the two provincials, and it is believed that they still are in custody.

The Chinese press in commenting on this, characterized the affair as an outrage and a disgrace to China.—N.C. Daily Press.

YEN-CHING COLLEGE.

NEW CHINESE CHANCELLOR.

[United Press.]

Peking.—Yenching University, the leading missionary college in North China, has opened its school year with a record enrollment for its first year under a Chinese chancellor, Dr. Wu Lei Chuan.

The university, which is non-denominational, and represents a large investment by several Protestant missions, has registered with the Government at Nanking under the new regulations which forbid compulsory instruction in the Christian religion or compulsory religious services.

The former chancellor, Dr. Leighton Stuart, is remaining with the university, retaining the title of president, but definitely subordinate to the Chinese chancellor.

Campus Dedication.

Elaborate ceremonies have been arranged for the formal dedication of Yenching's new campus, three miles outside the walls of Peking, on which a dozen modern buildings adapted to the Chinese style of architecture have been constructed. Yenching is a co-educational institution, with an enrollment this year of 401 men and 161 women. Even during the years when mission institutions were threatened with extinction in China, Yenching has managed to keep open with a considerable student body.

One of the new features this year is a department of journalism, the money for which was raised last year among editors in the United States.

BANDIT BURIED ALIVE.

POETIC JUSTICE IN THE NORTH.

EX-MILITARY GOVERNOR'S FATE.

[United Press.]

Peking.—"Poetic justice" is the comment in the Chinese press upon reports from Shantung that Chu Yu Pu, a Chinese villain with a comic-opera name, has been buried alive by enraged peasants whose homes he had looted and whose families he had ruined.

Chu Yu Pu was a survival of the Middle Ages, revealing the cruelty, rapacity and cynical disregard of other people's rights which were characteristic of some rulers centuries ago. The mode of his death, also medieval, is therefore considered fitting.

Villages Looted and Buried.

At one time Chu was military governor of the great province of Chihvi, with headquarters at Tientsin. He is credited with having ground down the people more severely than any of the long line of mis-governors he succeeded.

Chu was a "running-mate" of the notorious Chang Tsung Chang, one-time military governor of Shantung, and when Chang collapsed, Chu fell with him. The consensual pair fled to Unien with millions in loot, and began to organize an attempt to recover Shantung province after the Nationalists arrived.

Last year, Chang and Chu appeared suddenly in Shantung, bought up a number of bandit gangs, and announced a "robber government." For months they looted and burned the villages and towns of North-east Shantung, while the Government armies sought in vain to drive them out. They made a shambles of a vast district, which has not yet recovered.

Driven Into a Corner.

The Government armies finally drove them into a corner, and it was reported at the time that both were "permitted to escape." Chang went to Japan, where he still lives. Nothing definite was heard about what happened to Chu until the report of his death.

After Chang had gotten away, Chu and his bandit bodyguard shut themselves up in a walled city of 50,000 inhabitants. Here they looted and burned at will with the Government army outside the gates. When they were finally defeated, the Government troops found the city an absolute ruin, with the wells choked with the bodies of suicides.

An anecdote of Chu Yu Pu while he was governor of this province illustrates his contempt for the law. Two of his concubines, the story runs, became infatuated with two young actors, and met the young men secretly.

Suicide Command.

A servant told Chu, and the military governor, whose word was law in this province at the time, shot one of the girls himself, and commanded the other to commit suicide, which she did. The two actors were arrested as "communist suspects" and executed.

The mothers of the young men thereupon both committed suicide, while a third concubine, terrified by the death of her harem-sisters, disappeared, presumably a suicide.

Nothing good about Chu Yu Pu has ever appeared in the Chinese press. He is accused of blackmail, extortion, abduction of kidnapping, and a variety of other crimes. But no judge dared move against him, and his alleged crimes went unmentioned, until finally he lost his bodyguard, and Shantung peasants took the law into their own hands.

BROTHERS FALL OUT OVER MARRIAGE.

ONE GOES TO HOSPITAL, OTHER TO JAIL.

When one can't make his own living, how can he be expected to support a wife. That was the argument maintained by Sze Ho Shang, of Tayangjiao, Chapei, when his 45-year-old brother, Sze Hsueh San, announced his intention of marrying a widow, age 47.

As a result of the argument, Sze Ho Shang is now in the hospital, suffering from a fractured skull while his brother, who is charged with having caused the fracture, is in jail. Physicians report that the injured man is in a serious condition due to loss of blood and that chances for his recovery are slender.

The Sze brothers, who are natives of Kiangsu, have for years resided at Tayangjiao. Their domicile is nothing more than a straw hut and, as a usual thing, they seldom had funds enough to buy clothes and food. When the younger of the two, Sze Hsueh San, informed his brother that he wanted to get married, Sze Ho Shang exploded.

He berated his relative, called him foolish for falling in love at his age and wanted to know how the couple expected to live.

The battle that followed wrecked the straw hut. Sze Hsueh San seemed to have acquired all the furies of the inferno. He broke furniture—what there was to break, then picked up the pieces and dumped them out in the road. He hit his brother over the head with a chair and when the latter fell kicked him.

The neighbours, hearing the commotion, interfered. Someone reported the matter to the police and Sze Ho Shang, still in a fury, was taken away to jail. The elder brother was rushed to the hospital where an examination revealed that his skull had been broken.

APPEAL TO THE P.W.D.

[TO THE EDITOR OF THE "HONG KONG DAILY PRESS."]

SIR,—I beg to draw attention to the perpetration of a cruel nuisance by the contractors—with the sanction of the Public Works Department—on the residents along Kai Tak Road and that neighbourhood.

A few months ago sputtering engines attached to earth-trucks began to operate from morning till night, sending volumes of suffocating smoke into the houses, but this inconvenience has to be tolerated, as there is reclamation work to be done at the Aerodrome for the Government.

Lately, however, these engines have been even more intensively exploited and in the quiet of the evening, the nerve-racking noise and health-destroying smoke do not cease until midnight.

I have to submit that a resident is entitled to his sleep from 9 p.m. without organised disturbance, and that the Public Works Department should not, in the interests of the public, permit these engines to operate after that hour. The assistance of the Director of Public Works is hereby invoked to remedy a real grievance.—Yours, etc.

WATER SHORTAGE PERSISTS.

[TO THE EDITOR OF THE "HONG KONG DAILY PRESS."]

SIR,—After reading your thrilling account of the thunderstorm last Sunday, I felt sure there would be plenty of water for me this morning—but no! As usual, before the keyer has been on five minutes, the water gradually gets less and less and then stops entirely for some minutes.

Surely there is enough water now in the reservoirs to give us full pressure, but we do not get it. Why! How the people on the third floor of the flats here get on I cannot imagine when those on the ground floor cannot get a constant supply.

Will somebody in authority please look into this matter and put it right! If there really is a shortage of water, still, let us know and we must put up with it, but if the reservoirs are full, please let us have our full supply.

Finally, can anyone tell me whether a claim could be upheld against the P.W.D. if a geyser explodes through the water supply being suddenly stopped?—Yours, etc.

RACE-TRACK TACTICS.

[TO THE EDITOR OF THE "HONG KONG DAILY PRESS."]

SIR,—As an eye-witness of the Open Mile at the H.K.W. Corps sports meeting I should very much like to ask "Athlete" a question.

No doubt he is well aware of the powers that he stipulated that before a competitor is allowed to cross another he must first gain a three yard lead. Now when the first Indian runner passed Pte. Baulsh of the Somersets he certainly did not wait until he was three yards to the good before he crossed to the inside berth; rather more like one third of that length, and it was about this distance apart they remained until within fifty yards of the winning post, when it appeared obvious that Baulsh intended regaining the lead, but owing to the presence of another Indian runner very close to his right and a little to the rear he was completely hemmed in, and there he had to remain until the finish had he not taken the course he did.

What I should like to know from "Athlete" is, presuming himself in Baulsh's position, what would he have done? Would he have resorted to the "unfair and unreporting-like" action of getting through and so cause "a black spot to appear on an otherwise bright afternoon's sport," or would he, a better runner, be content to demurely fill second, or more probably, third place.—Yours, etc.

CLAIM AGAINST A BANK.

PLAINTIFF'S STORY OF DEPOSIT MONEY.

JUDGE'S POOR OPINION OF WITNESSES

In the Summary Court yesterday, before Mr. Justice Wood, the Foo Loong Bank, 100, Queen's Road Central, was sued for the recovery of $641, which, it was contended, was the equivalent of a deposit of $1,000 Central Bank of China notes.

Mr. F. C. E. Rendall for plaintiff, said that his client purchased Central Bank notes from defendant for which he paid $528. He received 100 $10 notes and as he had no immediate need for the money, deposited it with the bank.

On August 21, plaintiff went to the bank to draw his money. When he made application the clerk looked up the records and said no money had been deposited. Plaintiff left for Kowloon and returned to Hong Kong on September 7 when he again made a demand.

He was again informed that there was no deposit, in spite of the deposit note which he produced.

Plaintiff's Story.

Giving evidence, the plaintiff, whose name is Chan Hang Shan, said he was manager of the Lee Sang Chung firm, No. 16, Eastern Street, and of the Li Chai rice mill, Kowloon. He had made other purchases of Central Bank notes but those transactions were for cash and no records had been kept.

When he was told he had made no deposit, he "made a fuss" and told defendant's manager that he could not do business in that way. Cross-examined by Mr. Watson, for defendant, plaintiff denied that he received the equivalent of his money on June 22.

He denied that on June 22 he sold the notes to the bank for $631. He admitted that up to June 22 he had a lot of other transactions with the bank. He could not remember whether $1,000 was deposited with the bank as security against speculation in exchange because the money was not all deposited at the same time. It consisted of several sums.

Mr. Watson: The money in this case is for money deposited with the bank and not for exchange transactions?—Yes.

Plaintiff denied that he had ever owed any money to the bank, and declared they would not "give me credit for one cent."

Mr. Watson: On June 22, you owed $4,800 to the bank on exchange contracts?—No.

You had a settlement on June 22?—I did not settle anything with the defendant on June 22. I did not receive any money on that day.

On that day your deposit of $1,000, plus $631 and the money you brought with you settled your debt to the bank?—No, that is not true. All the other transactions had already been settled.

Mr. Watson mentioned a previous action brought by Tak Lee against the bank for $500 which amount was paid. Plaintiff denied that he was Tak Lee. Tak Lee was a distant cousin of his.

Coincidences.

Cross-examining the defendant, Mr. Rendall asked him whether it was not a strange coincidence that the plaintiff should have a deposit note both in this action and the previous one.

Defendant: If there were no such coincidences there would be no litigation. Asked why he did not get the deposit note back at the time the money was alleged to have been paid, defendant said that a fuk of the firm knew the plaintiff and he accepted a promise that the note would be returned the following day.

The evidence being closed, Mr. Watson submitted that it was a question as to which side was to be believed.

His Lordship said that he could not believe some of the earlier witnesses for the defendant, nor could he accept all the evidence on the other side. In his Lordship's view both sides had paid each other. He therefore proposed to give judgment for the plaintiff on the claim.

Mr. Watson accepted this ruling and indicated that he would consider the question of taking another action to recover the money. Judgment was entered for plaintiff with costs, stay of execution being granted for one month.

ROUND THE COURTS.

ARMY COOK-BOY
"SCROUNGES" HAM.

When a mess boy employed lately at Wellington Barracks was charged before Mr. E. W. Hamilton with the theft of 14 pounds of ham, Mr. W. D. Owen, who represented the defendant, entered a plea of guilty.

Mr. Owen said that he had instructions to admit the charge and to plead for leniency. The ham was the remains of a day's ration and the defendant understood that it was of no further use. He therefore took it away.

Mr. Owen mentioned that the defendant had had ten years' service at various barracks and had a good character throughout. The military representative in Court confirmed this and added that they were not pressing the charge.

His Worship imposed a fine of $75 or in default six weeks' hard labour.

IGNORING SIGNALS.

Mr. N. Allen was fined $10 by Mr. E. W. Hamilton for disobeying traffic directions at Garden Road junction on September 14. At a previous hearing it was stated that the defendant had proceeded along Queen's Road despite the fact that the light at the foot of Garden Road was against him. Defendants declared that the lights were turned against him just as he was passing the signal. His Worship held that Mr. Allen had made a genuine mistake in his impression of what occurred. He had seen the place and did not think Traffic Sergeant McInnes (who had given evidence) could have been mistaken.

FINE REDUCED.

The driver of a motor lorry who was fined $25 in all for speeding in Nathan Road and for driving a Ford lorry when he was only licensed to drive a Chevrolet car informed Mr. T. S. Whyte Smith that although he had been given 24 hours to raise the money, he was unable to meet the fines and could only pay $10.

Observing that the defendant had a good character and as he was fairly old and would probably have difficulty in finding work if he lost his job by going to prison, the Magistrate stated that the fine would be reduced to $10.

MESS BOY "CANED."

Twelve strokes of the cane was the sentence passed by Mr. T. S. Whyte Smith on a mess boy employed on the Yau-mai ferry boat Man Hing, who was convicted of stealing a brass rope guide from the ferry.

CONDEMNED MAN'S LAST ACTS.

LETTERS OF ADVICE TO CHIANG KAI-SHEK AND WU PEI-FU.

Two Chinese convicted for black-mailing and murder, were handed over to the Chinese authorities for execution under an escort of the Settlement police, after they had been asked their last wishes at the Provisional Court.

The blackmailer who was an ex-policeman, and an ex-soldier of the Nationalists Army, had nine charges against him and was sentenced to 12 years' imprisonment, which sentence was disproved by the Kiangsu Provincial Government who asked that the case should be re-tried. Consequently the court sentenced the accused to death, in May, 1929.

When brought before the court he asked if he might write letters to General Chang Kai Shek and Wu Pei Fu, which request was immediately granted. The condemned man said that he did not care if he died as he was 38 years of age and too old to serve his nation.

His letter to General Chang Kai Shek was as long as that to Wu Pei Fu; both were written in an empty court-room. He asked the former to engage new officials who were not afraid of death, and many similar sentences as that, in which he concluded with a poem, declaring that it was the secret of how China could be saved. He finished his letter requesting that the poem be inscribed on the monument erected before the Shanghai Nankai Railway Station. His letter to Wu Pei Fu was in the same strain.

The other condemned man was convicted of the murder of a bank messenger whom he shot on Sze-chuen and Ningpo Roads in April, 1929. They were both given food at their request.—M.C. Daily Press.

COLONY'S HEALTH WEEK.

THE GILBERTIAN TOUCH.
COMEDY AT SANITARY BOARD MEETING.

"When a Member's not engaged in his employment, his employment, or thinking of a Sanitary plan, is as great as that of any other man, other man."

(With apologies to W. S. Gilbert.)

In long and solemn conclave, the Sanitary Board deliberated upon an item on the agenda at yesterday's meeting which certainly suggested possibilities for enlightening debate. It came under the heading of "Health Week."

One's mind positively beggled at visions of armies of sanitary coolies carrying out an intensive campaign against all and sundry germs which happened upon their path, long-haired lecturers at street corners, verbose addresses given in the City Hall by prominent local medicals, lengthy articles in the Press about the destructive effects of microbes upon human life and the public peace generally, long processions with banners and paper dragons winding through the Chinese quarters, and goodness knows what else.

Instead, "Gentlemen," announced the Chairman gravely, "the next item to be considered is the observance of Health Week in the Colony."

He held a large bundle of papers in his hand neatly tied with red tape. "I take it that all members of the Board have seen them," he continued.

"Have I?" queried Mr. M. K. Lo suspiciously.

"You have signed them, so I take it that you must have done," returned the Chairman.

"Yes," agreed the member, "but I cannot remember having read them."

"I have not seen them," declared Mr. Wong Kwong Tin decisively.

The Chairman explained their object. "It is proposed to hold Health Week from October 9-12," he said. "The Chinese Y.M.C.A. have worked in this direction during several past winters and they propose to do it again. The Director of Medical Services has put up a memo compiled by the M.O. for Schools. I agree with Dr. Williams when he says that the work done in the schools is the most important part of the work in connection with hygiene. I suggest we concentrate on the schools."

Mr. Braga Objects. Mr. Braga considered the scheme should go further. If additional expenses were incurred, he argued, the Government should be prepared to meet it on a recommendation from the Sanitary Board because any expense in that direction was quite justified.

Dr. Fawcett brought the orators down to earth, however. "All the Board is asked to do is to clap their hands and approve of the scheme which has already been drafted and is ready to be put into operation," he pointed out. "It is all fixed up and is more or less a one-man show and it's no use making any suggestions now. I quite agree that unless it is extraordinarily well organized, the scheme will be of no use. It should have been brought to our notice before."

Chairman: But a lot more could be done. Mr. Braga, I believe, would like to have seen the place plastered with propaganda? Mr. Braga: Certainly, and I would like to go further than that.

"Month of Sundays." Chairman: As one member of the Board has seen the scheme I suggest we postpone further consideration of the scheme until our next meeting in a fortnight's time.

Mr. Braga: And then it will be too late. We unnecessarily delay our decisions in the Board-room. This Board takes a month of Sundays to decide anything. In this instance, the sooner we come to a decision the better. Our recommendations have counted for so little in the past and this thing may go far as to be pigeon-holed and forgotten entirely—Or else Health Week will be over before we have drawn up our recommendations!"

Mr. Wong Kwong Tin: I am not prepared to say one thing or another without seeing the scheme. Is it a fair thing to me?

Later, he offered to withdraw his proposal for the deferment of the scheme if such a step would save time.

The Chairman: I think we had better defer it until our next meeting. Mr. Braga: Shame! (Laughter.) And so, the scheme hangs up until the Board has drawn up recommendations which, as Mr. Braga (Continued at foot of next column).

DECLINE OF CHINA'S SHIPPING.

FEWER SHIPS ON BOTH RIVER AND COAST.

The Kuo Wen news agency recently published a statement on the decline of Chinese shipping, which affords melancholy reading. Taking the different lines one by one, the Kuo Wen gives these reports:

Yangtze (Up River) Shipping.

In previous years Chinese steamboats running between Hankow and Chungking amounted to more than 30, but the competition with foreign shipping companies was so keen that it proved the weakness on the part of China's shipping, and until very recent times there were only five or six Chinese steamers running regularly along this section of the River. Unfortunately, since the 15th instant all these Chinese boats were and still are lying at Ichang doing no more business.

Hatchow-Shanghai Coast Line.

With the train service along the Lungshai Railway resumed, Hatchow is overwhelmed with cargo from the interior, waiting for steamers to ship it to Shanghai for transshipment. It was usually the China Merchants' S. N. Co.'s business to charter at least one steamboat to ship away the cargo; the steamship Tungwah, for instance, was the last steamer arriving in Shanghai from that port with 3,700 cases of tobacco leaves. But the harbour at Hatchow is so shallow that at present no coast vessel of any considerable tonnage dares to sail in. This reason together with others has compelled the Chinese Merchants' S. N. Co. to give up this line. From to-day onward there will be no more Chinese coasting steamers running on this line.

Shanghai-Tientsin Coast Line.

Formerly, there were four China Merchants' steamboats running along this line regularly; but on account of the recent trouble over the wharf at Tientsin the Company has withheld three, leaving the steamer Hsin Ming alone to continue her service along this line.

Shanghai-Foochow Line.

Until very recently there were four Chinese shipping companies with steamboats running regularly along this coast line, but since yesterday only the steamers Yung-hing and Shan An are left to keep their schedule on this line.

The Southern Coast.

Chinese liners running between Shanghai, Swatow and Canton were numerous in the past, but the competition has become so keen that the number has decreased rapidly every year, till the China Merchants' S. N. Co. alone was able to stand for a while. Much to the disappointment of the public, of the four China Merchants' steamboats running along this line not one is now able to continue her service. At present, there is not a single Chinese boat travelling regularly on the southern coast—Kuo Wen.

$230,000 CONTRACT FOR SEED PLANT.

GOVERNMENT ASSISTS DISTRIBUTION.

["D.P." Special Service.]

Moose Jaw, Sask.—The contract for the construction of the new registered seed plant for the Saskatchewan Registered Seed Growers Limited of Moose Jaw, has been let to the Carter-Hall-Aldinger Company of Montreal, Winnipeg and Vancouver for $230,000. It is announced here by company officials. Work is to commence immediately on the excavation. The contract calls for the building to be finished November 15, ready to handle the registered seed crop of the present season.

The structure is to be of solid fireproof construction, the base dimensions of 115 feet by 90 feet running up five storeys with a tower in the middle of ten additional storeys, 90 feet by 52 feet. The sack and bin storage approximates 150,000 bushels at any one time, but the equipment will handle several times that during the seed season. The Regina Leader points out that the Dominion Government, through the Department of Agriculture, is equipping in a splendid way the farmers' Seed Pool of the province with this fine concrete plant, in recognition of the work that has been done by them in the last five years in distributing uniformly high quality seed of pedigree ancestry to the farmers of the West.

pointed out, may be given no attention. But a twinkle in his eye suggested to my lay mind that Mr. Braga quite enjoyed his little tilt at the Board's deliberative methods of debate, while I could not help thinking that the humour of the situation were not entirely lost upon Dr. Fawcett!

CANTON TRADE NOTES.

Merchants in Chefoo have suspended business as a protest against the new taxes on imports and exports.

Match manufacturers are doing fairly well as the import of Japanese matches has been reduced recently. The Canton output has increased by about twenty per cent.

The flour market has been exceedingly active since Monday as stocks and arrivals are short and demand healthy. Prices have advanced by about twenty cents per bag.

The piece goods market which has been unexpectedly inactive since spring has been further handicapped by the present financial crisis. Merchants are doing less than one third of their normal business at this time of the year.

Business in the North River districts has been dead lately owing to military activity and the depreciation of the Central Bank of China notes. The exportation of leaf tobacco and paper, the chief products of the North River districts, has been held up, and no foreign goods are being sent to these districts from Canton.

The depreciation of the Central Bank of China notes has affected the cotton yarn market which has been inactive for the last week. Transactions have been few and the market is overstocked. Prices have, however, remained firm, as merchants are unwilling to sell. A telegram from Shanghai says that the market on Monday was steady and the quotations were unchanged.

EUROPEAN SUGAR MARKET.

LIGHT'S FAVOURABLE ESTIMATE OF CROP.

Messrs. Pentreath & Co. have received the following wire from Liverpool, dated October 1.

The Light estimate of the European Sugar crop is 8,134,000 tons. Constructed slightly bearish.

Interviewed by our representative the Manager of Messrs. Pentreath & Co. said that the estimate by Light, the famous Australian statistician was far above what had been expected and had evidently dispelled the current reports to the effect that the drought in Europe had injured the sugar beet crop. On the contrary a good crop was now expected.

CANADIAN NATIONAL'S EARNINGS.

5 PER CENT GAIN OVER LAST YEAR.

["D.P." Special Service.]

Gross earnings for the National System in June amounted to $22,198,921, compared with $22,032,767 in June 1928, an increase of $166,154. For the first six months of 1929 gross earnings totalled $127,145,211 compared with $122,812,626 for the first half of last year, an increase of $4,332,585. Net earnings in June were $2,440,927 as compared with $2,300,658 in June 1928. For the first six months net earnings were $12,888,945 in comparison with $12,870,375, an increase of $18,570 or 0.14 per cent.

SOMETHING SAVED BY THE SOVIETS.

CLAIM FOR SALVAGE AGAINST GERMAN LINER.

HAMBURG, Sept. 28.

A mixed Russo-German tribunal has been constituted in order to arbitrate in the case of the Russian Government's claim for Mks. 2,300,000 resulting from salvage operations by the Russian ice-breaker Krassin in the case of the German liner Monte Cervantes. The German ship was rammed under the water line by an ice-floe last year near Spitzbergen and was in a dangerous position when found by the Krassin. The ice-breaker towed the German liner into Spitzbergen where the damage was repaired by the engineers of the Krassin.

The salvage claim being considered exorbitant by the German Line, both parties decided to resort to arbitration.

HAMILTON BRIDGE.

SECURES PROPERTY FOR TRONTO PLANT.

["D.P." Special Service.]

Toronto, Ont.—Large-scale development of the structural steel industry here is foreshadowed in the announcement that the Hamilton Bridge Company has secured a 5-acre parcel of waterfront property at the foot of Spadina avenue, where its operations when in full swing are expected to give employment to from 150 to 200 men, in addition to investigating and stepping up the steel shipping phase of harbour front activity. Announcement of the completion of negotiations was made by the Toronto Harbour Commissioners. Though the Harbour Board did not make public the amount of money involved in the transaction, it is understood that it will mean an investment of at least $300,000, the purchase it is pointed out, including the large buildings which were some time ago acquired by Canada Metal Company and which were formerly the main section of the Dominion Shipbuilding Company plant.
